Hollywood's Golden Days.

DAVID O. SELZNICK'S HOLLYWOOD
 By Ronald Haver

Lavish, beautiful, as entertaining as the great movies it celebrates—with 1,000 illustrations in both black and white and opulent color, with a "Gone With the Wind" foldout, with a copper "King Kong" insert, with hundreds of rare Technicolor frame enlargements—here is the story of Hollywood, of the people who made the films, and of the methods they used from 1925 to 1965.
 By tracing Selznick's extraordinary development as a producer, Ronald Haver traces the development of the American movie industry. The result is a book as wonderful as the movies. A dazzling, star-studded entertainment. Hardbound. $75.00.

A Rock History.

THE ROLLING STONE ILLUSTRATED HISTORY OF ROCK & ROLL 1950-80, Revised and Updated
 By Jim Miller

The best history of rock and roll ever produced—a glorious, profusely illustrated giant-sized book, with 450 photographs—now fully revised and updated to cover all the revolutionary changes that have taken place in rock music in the past 4 years, from punk, funk, and reggae to disco and the New Wave.

In 81 chapters and over 200,000 words of history and commentary by the top rock writers, the book covers the entire scene. Paperback. $10.95.

Betty's Cooking International.

LOON LAKE
 By E. L. Doctorow

A dazzling new novel by the author of RAGTIME.

In LOON LAKE, he has created an array of superbly realized characters in the America of the 1930s. The central figure is a young man of great ambition—Joe of Paterson he calls himself—making his life on the road in a nation still gripped by Depression and heading toward war. He begins his journey as a hobo and then as a carnival roustabout before he finds his destiny by following the track of a private railroad onto the vast Adirondack estate of one of the country's richest men. Here, at Loon Lake, he makes astounding discoveries about himself that propel him on a cross-country odyssey in which he experiences passion and loss, the brutality of power, the force of violence, and astonishing, corrupting success. Hardbound. $11.95.

Surviving the 80's.

THE NEXT WHOLE EARTH CATALOG Access to Tools
 By Steward Brand

The phenomenal bestseller of the 1970s is now bigger and better than ever—completely revised, updated, and redesigned to help you survive the economic, ecological, and political perils of the eighties.

The comprehensive, how-to-do-it, reference manual is expanded by more than 150 pages. Stressing self-reliance as the better way (indeed, nowadays for most of us the only way), it ventures boldly and authoritatively into areas of particular concern for this decade with specific information that will help anyone—from the innovative young to the determined elderly—to cope successfully with the vagaries of our times.

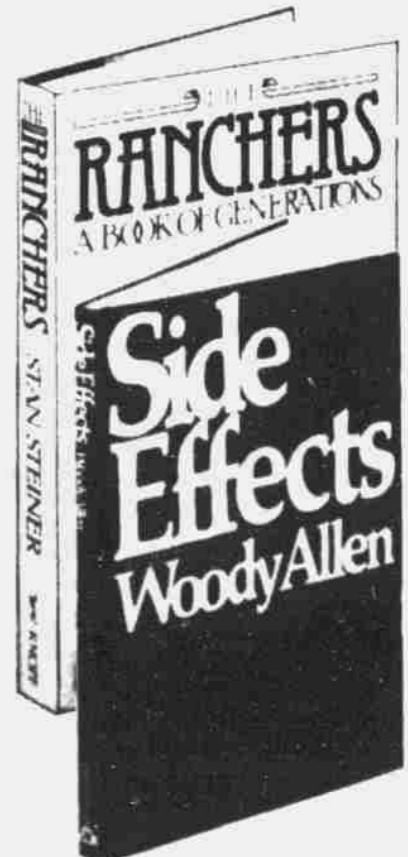

The new or revised listings meet the same stringent criteria for inclusion (as the old): an item only appears if it is useful as a tool, relevant to independent education, of high quality or low cost, and easily available by mail. Paperback. $12.50.

A Cowboy at Heart.

THE RANCHERS A Book of Generations
 By Stan Steiner

For more than three decades, Stan Steiner has been wandering the dusty back roads of the American West, listening to descendants of the pioneers recall how they have lived out this century on the rural frontier. In an Oregon valley, in the hills of Montana, in a ghost town in New Mexico, these proud and rugged individuals talk about living in sod houses, about learning the secrets of dry farming, and about how they came to respect life around them and to cherish the land. THE RANCHERS is full of the richness of Western storytelling. Hardbound. $12.95
