

Expensive gifts . . .

The Cellar also carries a wide selection of imported beers, including Dab, a German beer which sells for $5.40 a six-pack and Krakus, a Polish beer which sells for $5.96 a six. Albert recommended Carlsberg Elephant Malt Liqueur.

"It's sturdy stuff with a kick like an elephant. It's about 12 percent alcohol, comparable to wine. It's pretty potent," he said. Carlsberg sells for $5.96 a six-pack.

If cars and liquor don't suit you, how about a warm and practical winter coat?

For about $7,000 you can find a nice full-length mink coat at Hovland-Swanson-Cochrane.

Dee Schank, a salesperson at Hovland-Swanson-Cochrane, said fur coats continue to be popular despite their prices, which she said vary according to quality and availability. A lynx coat, for example, will cost about $6,500. Sable, will be higher.

Schank said people buy fur coats because they are fashionable and warm. They are also very hardy and if properly cared for will last up to 15 years.

Let Your June Wedding start with a Christmas Engagement

The most romantic purchase of your life should also be a most knowledgeable one.

Brilliance is the key to beauty in diamonds. Always look for a diamond that has been cut and polished to bring out all of its natural brilliance, one that meets the exacting standards that have been established as ideal. These are called ideal cut diamonds.

When a diamond is ideally cut, its 58 facets are placed in precise relation to the others. They act as tiny mirrors, constantly capturing and reflecting light and bouncing it back through the top of the stone in a brilliant blaze. A diamond cut too shallow makes it look bigger, but lets some of the light "leak out" through the bottom and the stone appears watery. One cut too deep lets light "leak" through the sides and appears black in the center when compared to an ideal cut diamond.
