

May grads must apply for degrees

Students graduating May must apply for degrees no later than 5 p.m. Tuesday or they will not graduate.

"If they don't apply for a degree, they aren't going to get it," said Shirley Thomsen, assistant director of registration and records.

Nursing and dental students must apply for their degree through the NU Medical Center, but may attend commencement at UNL or the medical center.

Likewise, social work and criminal justice students must apply for a degree through UNO, and may attend ceremonies in Omaha or Lincoln, Thomsen said.

"We really won't know until April 8 at 5 p.m. who is going to graduate," she said. About 1,900 students are expected to graduate.

Thomsen said she doesn't know how many applications have been turned in so far, but said they "come in in droves".

Once a student applies, his or her name is put on a list by one of five clerks who handle graduation paperwork. They update the list almost daily, subtracting students who postpone graduation, Thomsen said.

Students who meet the deadline will receive a letter of general information in mid-April about the commencement exercise.

Correction

The Daily Nebraskan incorrectly reported Thursday that a resolution supporting LB23, which would allow minors to receive confidential professional counseling from psychologists or psychiatrists, was approved by the ASUN Senate.

The resolution failed by 5-15-6.
