Oklahoma foe Saturday

Huskers seek share of second in Big Eight

By Jeff Goodwin

After playing what Coach Moe Iba called "our worst game of the year" against Kansas, the Nebraska basketball team must beat an improved Oklahoma team if it is to retain a share of second place in the league.

The Sooners, who earlier this month dropped a 71-59 decision to the Huskers in Norman, Okla., have won three of their last five games, including a win against Missouri.

"They've won some games and that's given them some confidence," Iba said. "We know they're going to come in here and give us a tough game. They always play hard."

Iba said the Kansas loss may prove to be a benefit for the Huskers.

"I think this will open our eyes and make us realize: that we have to do the things that we've been successful with."

Iba noted the Sooners have the second and third leading rebounders in the conference in Steve Bajema and Les Pace.

"We're going to have to do a better job of screening off and going after the ball," Iba said.

The two teams present contrasting styles. Oklahoma, following the vow of Coach Billy Tubbs, who said before the season, "This year we're going to run and shoot, next year we're going to shoot and score," is second in the conference in scoring, averaging more than 72 points per game. In contrast, the Huskers are last offensively with a 62.8 average. The Sooners also boast the leading scorer in the Big Eight in guard Chuck Barnett, who is averaging more than 18 points per game.

The Sooners are 9-16 overall and 4-9 in the conference, and the Huskers are 14-11 overall and 8-5 in the conference.

Husker women's Texas road trip to include a tough 'at-home' team

The UNL women's basketball team will travel to Texas this weekend. They will play Texas A & M on Friday and the University of Texas on Saturday.

Coach Matsuhara said Saturday's game will definitely be the tougher of the two. They are rated 11th in the nation and are tough to beat when they play at home, she added.

The team has won 36 straight home games, Matsuhara said. She added that they also received the coach of the year award last year.

Matsuhara said Texas has an aggressive defense and is a running team.

"We'll be working on containing them throughout the game," Matsuhara said.

The trip to Texas will be a good tune-up, according to Matsuhara. The games should help get the team ready to compete against Arizona State followed by the regionals.

Matsuhara hopes for a split this weekend. She added the team won't overlook Friday's game while preparing for Texas.

"We'll worry about one game at a time," Matsuhara said.
