

UNL rodeo team will host meet this weekend

By Hollie Wieland

Bucking broncos, wild bulls and lots of bruises are all on the program for the 23rd annual University of Nebraska Intercollegiate Rodeo Friday through Sunday at the State Fairgrounds.

According to James Stubbendieck, faculty adviser for the UNL rodeo team, participants from 12 colleges and universities in seven states will be competing.

Darrell Barron, a professional rodeo cowboy, and Paul Mayo, a world-champion bareback rider, will also appear at the rodeo, said Cheryl Westcott, assistant instructor of Agricultural Communications.

The two champions will be attending as representatives of the U.S. Tobacco Co., which presents scholarships at the end of the year to several outstanding college cowboys.

Animals to be used in the rodeo are professional stock from Onida, S.D., said Stubbendieck, who is also an associate professor of agronomy.

Stubbendieck said this year's rodeo will be named the Bart Daly Memorial Rodeo in honor of a UNL student who died last summer.

Admission will be charged. The rodeo serves as the main fund raiser for UNL rodeo team members, who must pay travel expenses, practice arena rental fees, the cost of purchase or lease of practice stock and feed for stock, Stubbendieck said.

He said some money from the rodeo also goes toward a scholarship fund.

Both the UNL women's and men's rodeo teams are ranked third in the Great Plains region, going into this rodeo.

After 12 rodeos, the top two teams in each region will then go to the national finals in June at Bozeman, Mont.

Marshal Juma, a UNL team member leads the nation in bareback riding and is also ranked high nationally as an all-around cowboy, said the UNL team "can't seem to put it all together."

According to Juma, a sophomore majoring in agriculture, the rodeo team has had bad luck in drawing its stock to be ridden. The team has participated in seven rodeos so far this year.

"You can't get any points if the animal doesn't move," he said. Juma, who specializes in bull-riding and bareback riding, said that it is possible, if a cowboy wins enough rodeos, to pay for all expenses with cash prizes.

Support among rodeo team members is probably better than team support in most other sports, Juma said.

According to Juma, the most difficult aspect of competition is keeping a positive attitude after several bad rides.

The toughest competition will be from South Dakota State University, Juma said.

There will be four performances, starting Friday at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday afternoon.

The top ten competitors in each event will compete in the finals at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

States represented in the rodeo include Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Renovations progressing at Ag Engineering

The Agricultural Engineering Building on East Campus has been undergoing renovations since June. Harley Schrader, UNL Physical Plant director said it was built before World War I, and has never undergone any renovations.

To make the building more useful and to extend its use, all three floors, including the basement, are having partitions removed and new classrooms, laboratories, shops and offices created.

Schrader said the old arrangement was similar, but not as efficient because the shop areas were poor and there were not any laboratories.

The renovations will cost $3.25 million, Schrader said. Much of that money is earmarked for new research and laboratory equipment, he said.

Schrader said he hopes renovations will be finished by July.

UNL

BOOK STORES

OFFER GOOD
APRIL 1, 2, & 3

LOWER LEVEL NEBRASKA UNION

 CALENDARS 50% OFF APRIL 1981	 BIG RED SOUVENIRS 15% OFF	FLEX $1.59 Balsam Shampoo SECRET $1.66 Roll-On COLGATE $1.44 Toothpaste	 Special Photo Savings
ACRYLIC PAINTS 99¢	 BUZZ BOOKS 69¢	COUPON DEVELOPING and PRINTING COLOR PRINT ROLL FILM <small>(C-41 process only)</small> 24 Exposure Roll $4.19 12 Exp. Roll $2.39 20 Exp. Roll $4.19 36 Exp. Roll $6.29 One Roll per Coupon
CARTER'S HI-LIGHTERS  39¢ Reg. 69¢	COUPON There's a place in your wallet for a memory 12 Wallet Photos Only $2.99 <small>The next time someone asks you about the family or the vacation or any occasion, open your wallet and show them. You'll get 12 wallet size photos at one low price so spread them around. Made from the same original color print or instant print.</small> <small>Coupon must accompany order.</small>
 $19.95 reg. 24.95 Panasonic JE-8433U 8-digit LCD pocket scientific calculator with Sure-Touch keyboard. A pocket-size calculator that can perform 43 scientific and other functions. Functions include trigonometric, logarithmic, exponential and factorial, as well as powers and roots. Statistical, permutation and combination, mean value and standard deviation calculations. Sure-Touch keyboard. Auto power off. Automatic Constant and Repeat. Independent Memory. Operates on 2 alkaline manganese batteries (included).	Specials good through April 3 at UNL Bookstore

short stuff

Early registration for next fall has been extended to April 3.

***
All University Fund will meet tonight at 7 in the Nebraska Union. Room number will be posted.

***
East Campus Gavel Club will be meeting tonight at 8:30 in the East Union. Room will be posted.

***
The Home Ec Education Association will meet tonight at 6:30 in the Home Economics Building 121.

***
Dave Aiken, UNL water law specialist, will speak on current legal issues concerning wetlands and the effects of uranium mining on ground water supplies Tuesday, April 7, in Room 125 of the UNL Law College. A question and answer period will follow. It will be sponsored by the Natural Resources Law Society.