Alums get in free for year

By Laure Perlinger

Recent UNL graduates may be gone from Lincoln, but the Nebraska Alumni Association is making sure they are not forgotten.

Jack Miller, executive vice president of the association for the past nine years, said Tuesday that students who receive their undergraduate degrees from UNL are eligible for a one-year free membership.

Although football tickets are not part of the package, Miller said new members can participate in university-sponsored tours, attend college programs and the association's meetings.

A one-year subscription to Nebraska Alumnus is provided free.

Nebraska Alumnus is published five times a year and includes university news, history and photographs. A section at the end of each publication contains news of deaths, weddings and promotions of alumni.

The second and third years following graduation, the alumnus pays half of the usual $16 membership fee.

Miller said between 22 percent and 29 percent of graduates respond to the membership from the first to second year. Comparing UNL to other universities, Miller said the percentage of recent graduates who become active is high.

Four years after graduation, the alum must pay the regular $16 fee to maintain membership.

UNL's Alumni Association has about 25,000 members. Miller said the members reside in all 50 states and about 35 or 40 foreign countries.

Alumni meetings take place across the nation, from Boston to San Francisco.

According to one Nebraska Alumnus, "Recent Alaskan-Nebraskan get-togethers have centered around televised Nebraska football games. Thirty-five alumni gathered to watch a tape-delay telecast of the NU-Oklahoma game."

"The Alumni Association is an organization providing service both to UNL's alumni and back to the university," Miller said.

An editorial in the first Nebraska Alumnus edition of the University Journal in 1913 read "To give life to the spirit of loyalty and to keep the thousands of Nebraska alumni in touch with the university and each other is the one main mission of the Nebraska Alumnus..."

The organization also sponsors the Scarlet and Cream Singers, the Student Alumni Association, class reunions, foreign and domestic tours, a merchandising program including Big Red items and a group life insurance program. Additionally, the group helps with Master's Week and homecoming.

The Alumni Association office is located in the Anderson Building until its new construction is completed at 1520 R St., the same area where it previously was located.

Miller said ground-breaking ceremonies are set for March, with construction expected to be completed by June, 1983.

Mueller planetarium programs start again

The Mueller Planetarium and Health Galleries in the UNL state museum are returning to their regular fall and winter schedule.

"Starbound," a multi-media planetarium special by Jack Horkheimer, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Saturdays and at 2:30 and 3:45 Sundays. There will, however, be no shows on Saturdays when there is a home football game.

In the Health Galleries, "Ceres, the Transparent Women" will be shown at 3:15 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Learning Center programs will be announced.

There is no admission charge for any Health Galleries program, but an admission is charged for Planetarium shows.
