Workshop stresses culture

"Iran and the Arab World" is the subject of a faculty and staff workshop that began Wednesday and is continuing today in the Nebraska Union.

The purpose of the workshop is "to raise the level of awareness of campus people regarding cultural differences," according to Linda Becker, international student adviser and workshop leader.

Approximately 300 students from Middle Eastern countries are enrolled at UNL each year.

University faculty and staff who attempt to understand the cultural background of their students will be more successful in relating to those students, she said.

About 80 persons registered for the conference, Becker said. Participants are randomly assigned to two groups, and each group is introduced to the culture of the Middle East.

One group is taught through a self-study learning approach, and the other receives the same information through a slide/tape program. Both approaches have been used in similar workshops across the country and have been well-received, Becker said.

For research purposes, an evaluation is taken following the workshop, and again three to four weeks later to determine retention of concepts, she said.

Three scholarships available

The College of Arts and Sciences has applications available for Marshall, Rhodes and Truman Scholarships in Oldfather 1223.

The Marshall scholarship is a $12,000 award for two years of study in the United Kingdom. Up to 30 scholarships are awarded to college seniors who have not reached their 26th birthday by Oct. 1, 1982. Applications are due in the Arts and Sciences office by 9 a.m. Oct. 5.

The Rhodes scholarship is a $5,500 award for study at Oxford University in Britain. The scholarship lasts for two years, but may be extended for a third. Thirty-two scholarships are awarded in the United States to seniors who are unmarried and between the ages of 18 and 24 by Oct. 1, 1981.

The candidate must have graduated with a bachelors degree before October 1982.

Applications are due to the Arts and Sciences office by 9 a.m. Oct 5.

The Truman scholarship is available to college sophomores who will be juniors in 1982-83. The two-year scholarship provides $5,500 each year.

Fifty-six scholarships are available for U.S. citizens and nationals.

The candidate must be pursuing undergraduate fields of study which will lead to a career in government. Applications are due in Oldfather 1223 by Oct. 14.
