personals

announcement

This is in response to a personal that appeared in the Nov. 4 issue of the Daily Nebraskan.

The personal was derogatory and offensive to the student. His first name and address were printed making him identifiable and making him the subject of public ridicule.

We apologize for this misleading and erroneous personal to appear in the paper and for the embarrassment it caused the student.

Our policy is this: "Absolutely no profanity will be allowed in any classified advertisement. This includes all slang terms with erotic or sexual connotations. Advertisements without profanity but with erotic suggestiveness and/or innuendo must be approved by the editor in chief."

Occasionally, a personal that violates this policy makes it into print. We regret those instances. In the future, our staff will attempt to pay closer attention to our policy so that no UNL student or group is wrongfully damaged.

Heidi J., Happy 20th. I hope it isn't unlucky. We'll have to get together and celebrate double (in a week). Cliff G.
