

Daily Nebraskan judged all-American

The Daily Nebraskan has been designated an all-American newspaper for the eleventh consecutive semester by the National Scholastic Press Association-Associated Collegiate Press for the spring semester 1981.

Kathy Chenault was the editor that semester. The paper received marks of distinction, the highest honor, in all of the five categories judged - coverage and content; writing and editing; design; opinion; and photography, art, and graphics.

Michael Sessler, newspaper judge, wrote:

"The Daily Nebraskan is a formidable student newspaper, one that is displaying fine professionalism in approach to coverage and overall writing."

The Associated College Press is affiliated with the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Nader will speak in union

Ralph Nader will address "Consumerism: Old Problems, New Answers" at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 17 in the Nebraska Union Centennial Room, in a speech sponsored by the University Program Council Talks and Topics Committee.

Nader, a veteran consumer advocate, first gained national attention with the publication of his book about the auto industry, Unsafe at Any Speed, according to a UPC press release.

Admission is free for students with a current student ID card and $2.00 for non-students.

Professor back in class

A UNL modern languages professor was back teaching classes Thursday after a few days of illness.

Roberto Esquenazi-Mayo, 61, of 8040 Northshore Drive, was taken by ambulance to Lincoln General Hospital Monday afternoon.

He had suffered dizziness. His history of heart problems prompted the hospitalization and he underwent tests.

A hospital spokesperson said Esquenazi-Mayo had not suffered a heart attack.

Esquenazi-Mayo told students Thursday he was feeling better. He could not be reached for comment by the Daily Nebraskan.

DEVANEY
By Bob Devaney (and Friends)

One of the five leading major college football coaches of all time, according to a 1981 Los Angeles Times survey, tells how he took Nebraska to the top. From his youth in Saginaw through coaching stops in Michigan high schools, Michigan State and Wyoming, to back-to-back national championships at Nebraska, the master story-teller's Irish wit appears on each of the book's 272 pages. Recruiting stories. The Bowl Games. The All-Americans. 58 pages of pictures. It's all here!
