"I'm excited just to go," she said "It would be really nice to fly, but there are some advantages to riding, like seeing the countryside," she said.

"It really doesn't make any difference," said Jay Haden, a sophomore from Bridgeport. "It (the trip) will make a lot of people pretty tired, but I'm not sure it will affect our performance or not."

Gering sophomore Kenny Cox said, "When I first heard we were going by bus, I was kind of upset. But the way I look at it now, it's going to be as fun as we make it. There is not a heck of a lot we can do about it."

Most of the band members questioned said if the regents and administrators get to fly, then the band should, too.

"We don't mind the idea of going by bus, but we do when we know it's possible to go by plane," Krueger said.

"If it works out so buses are the only way, then fine. But after this is all over, it would be nice to see an itemized list of the Orange Bowl expenses published," Krueger said.

Two UNL students file for pre-trial diversion

Two UNL students charged with theft were placed in the Lancaster County Pre-Trial Diversion Program last week.

Robert J. Wilczewski, 18, of 609 N. 17th St. and Timothy J. Salisbury, 19, of 832 Abel Hall filed for pre-trial diversion last Wednesday.

The two students were charged for the theft of stereo equipment from a car owned by Mark D. Dunham, 21, of Abel Hall. The equipment was valued at $850.

Red Cross blood drive short of goal

The Lincoln Community Blood Bank and the Omaha Red Cross are at UNL today to complete a two-day effort in this fall's campaign for blood donations, said co-chairperson Carol Shafer.

"Only 32 percent of this year's goal of 550 units of blood has been reached," she said. "We are really encouraging students, staff and faculty to donate blood."

About 60 volunteers from the UNL Campus Red Cross, Navy ROTC, UNL nursing students and Lancaster County Chapter of the Red Cross along with staffed registered nurses from the Omaha Red Cross are on hand for the two-day drive.

Kathy Deever, Omaha Red Cross RN, said "One of the most important things a donor can do, is eat a good meal before giving blood."

Shafer said that a donor is checked for vital statistics and medical history.

Margie Cook, blood service consultant of the Omaha Red Cross, said donating blood differs from donating plasma.

"Here, the whole blood is broken up into three factors, platelets, plasma and red pack cells," she said.

Cook said the shelf life for platelets is only three days and red cells just 35 days, compared to the almost indefinite shelf life of frozen plasma.

The drive continues today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the Nebraska Union Ballroom.
