

Health center board discusses insurance

The University Health Center Advisory Board met Wednesday for "a brainstorming session to decide which direction to proceed on student insurance policies," said board chairman Mike Grier.

Grier plans to have a rough draft of the new insurance contract, which will be written by the student board members, in two weeks. The board will begin to solicit bids from various companies in mid-March, he said.

The current UNL student insurance policy, with Mutual of Omaha, will be broken down and delegated into sections which will be revised by participating board members, Grier said. The University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans., 1981-82 policy with Blue Cross Blue Shield will be used as a reference to eliminate, clarify and add things to Nebraska's policy, Grier said.

"The two main areas we hope to improve are making the insurance policy easier for people to get and making it more flexible for students," Grier said. Eventually, he hopes to have the insurance option included on the UNL student registration form, so students do not have to go through an insurance company.

Grier's second goal is to provide a supplementary program for students who are covered on their parents' policies, as well as a main program for graduate students who are on their own.

"By updating the insurance now, we can have the policy available for students entering the university next fall," Grier said.
