

Muslim office ransacked

By Leslie Kendrick

The Muslim Student Association and Muslim Student Association Persian Speaking group's office on the third floor of the Nebraska Union was ransacked Friday about 1 p.m.

The second group is a pro-Khomeini organization.

The group's office was strewn with papers and books. A lighted picture of Khomeini was broken. Mohammad Bolrizadeh said the damage was less than $20.

The Persian speaking Muslim group accused the Iranian Student Association, an anti-Khomeini group, of ransacking the office.

Nasser Ghadimi said he was standing in the association's office when eight people from the ISA, who had been demonstrating in front of the union Friday afternoon, came into the office. Ghadimi said the group asked for a member of the Persian speaking group who was taking pictures of the demonstration.

Ghadimi told the eight that the member was not there and then went to the office of Peter Levitov, director of International Education Services. Frank Kuhn, assistant director of the Nebraska Union, was then called. When Ghadimi, Levitov and Kuhn went to the group's office, they found the room ransacked. Kuhn asked the eight people to leave, Ghadimi said.

A spokesman for the ISA said he and several demonstrators saw a person taking pictures of the demonstration from inside the union. The spokesman said that according to new regulations from the Iranian government, if Iranian students demonstrate against Khomeini, their funds will be cut off. The students cannot work in the United States and would be left without money if their funds were cut, the spokesman said.

He also said he was sure none of the ISA members ransacked the Persian speaking group's office.

Ghadimi said the ISA members went to the classroom of the student they thought was taking pictures. Ghadimi said they threatened the student and took a camera the student was carrying. Ghadimi said the camera was checked out from the College of Architecture.

UNL Police said no charges had been filed against the ISA. Dean of Students David DeCoster will receive a copy of the police report and will decide what action will be taken on the matter, police said.

Buildings

An example of the re-use of an older building in Lincoln is the Lincoln Exchange restaurant at 132 S. 13th St., Murphy said. The building was rehabilitated under the previous tax credit laws though.

Rehabilitating buildings should be encouraged because older buildings give interest and diversity to a neighborhood, he said. They also provide a sense of time, he said.

"Historical buildings are like history books, except they are unedited," he said. "You can learn a lot about past times and people by the way they worked and how they lived."
