Decision on new honorary unsettled

A chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, an honorary, may be formed at UNL, said Suzanne Brown, assistant to the vice chancellor for student affairs.

ODK, a national co-educational honorary, is similar to the senior honoraries of Mortar Board and Innocents in that it recognizes achievement in leadership, scholarship and service. It differs from the two in that its membership includes faculty members and graduate students as well as junior and senior undergraduates. There are 180 ODK chapters at colleges throughout the nation.

The question for Vice Chancellor Richard Armstrong is whether to accept the offer from the national honorary and begin an ODK chapter on the UNL campus.

To aid him in his decision, descriptive pamphlets about the honorary were sent to student organization presidents at UNL, advisers, faculty advisers, ASUN and RHA, Brown said. Armstrong will consider these groups' opinions before he decides. Only 10 responses, five opposing and five in favor, have been returned. Mortar Board and Innocents were against a UNL ODK chapter, while the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Council were in favor of it, Brown said. ASUN and RHA have not yet reached a decision.

Omicron Delta Kappa also expressed interest in forming a chapter at UNL a few years ago, Brown said, but the "motivation wasn't strong" for such a group to form then. Brown said Armstrong has set no deadlines for a decision, but is working for the opinions of all people questioned.

Ceremony initiates honorary members

A UNL senior honorary, the Innocents Society, will have an initiation ceremony tonight for 13 new members, said Innocents Society President Kent Warneke.

The group, which stresses academic excellence, leadership and service to the university, was founded in 1903 at UNL by administrators because of a lack of unity and spirit among students on campus, Warneke said.

For a long time, the initiation ceremony was done in a room in the state Capitol building at midnight, he said. "New Innocents were then run around the rotunda while blindfolded."

Warneke was not sure why the initiation ceremony was discontinued in the late '50s.

"At that time it was not considered good to be a student leader or an elite and tradition fell by the wayside," he said.

When the records of the early initiation ceremonies were found in the Love Library Archives this year, the Innocents decided to resume some parts of the original initiation ceremony for the first time in 20 years.

"The new members will be initiated at 10 p.m. in the union tonight," Warneke said. "Although they will be blindfolded, they will not have to run around." Warneke said the ceremony does not involve any hazing. It explains the original role to new members, he said.

New officers are Scott Drvol, president; Doran Matzke, vice president; Karen Morehead, secretary; and Scott Langemeier, treasurer. Other new members are Clark Landers, Christopher Wineman, Dave Mumgaard, Michelle Magruder, Mike Marsh, Anita Sandahl, Nette Nelson, Patti Gallagher and Betsy Miller.

Mortar Board announces its new members

The UNL chapter of Mortar Board has selected six honorary members, said Mortar Board member Kris Saalfeld.

This year's inductees are Hazel Metz Fox, a nutrition professor who has written and published several articles; Tom Osborne, UNL football coach; Audum Ravnan, UNL piano professor; Max Larsen, professor of mathematics and former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis; and Galen Dodge, director and founder of the Nebraska Human Resources Foundation.

The criteria for honorary members is excellence in scholarship, community service and leadership in the community, state and national level, Saalfeld said.

New Mortar Board members are: Steven Allhouse, Deborah Blain, Steven Davidson, Lisa Greve, Land Handke, Steven Hardy, Kathryn Hedges, Judy Henderson, Martha Hughey, Kristin Kiekhaefer, Deborah King, Susan Kort, Sharon Kriewald, Joel Lamb, Daniel Lipps, Lynda Madej, Steve Moody, Arthur Morrow, John O'Holleran, Bradley Olsen, Mark Pitner, Julia Read, Kathy Roth, Carl Sjulian, J.L. Spray, Kim Sutter, Susan Waring and Stacy Wells.
