Harassment suffered

As I was walking back to my residence in Abel Hall one day last week, I was bombarded with obscenities and verbal harassment from members of a fraternity. They were looking out from a second-story window of their house, and I wasn't the only one subjected to their harassment.

This brought to mind an incident last winter in which a snowball was thrown at me from members of the same fraternity as I came back from playing basketball at the Coliseum. At that time I also saw these fraternity members hit a young woman in the face with a snowball. I, nor anyone else that I know of, had done anything to warrant such actions.

Are these fraternity members the students that Gov. Charles Thone said "emerge as America's leaders?" According to an article in the April 16 Daily Nebraskan, he also said that every national fraternity is founded on a high set of values and principles. If these values and principles include verbal harassment and throwing things at passersby, then I'm glad I'm just a "dormie." Incidents like this make the term "frat-rat" seem increasingly more appropriate.

Union input welcome

I wish to respond to Alice E. Hrnicek's letter to the editor (Daily Nebraskan, April 27). First of all, I thank her for her valuable suggestion. The Nebraska Union is a structure built around serving the university community. Suggestions such as Hrnicek's are welcomed by the staff so that efforts can be made to improve the effectiveness of union services.

I also want to inform you that efforts are under way to renovate the South Crib. We are presently in the planning stage, and anyone with suggestions may direct them to the Nebraska Union Board.

Lastly, I think it's unfortunate when someone has a complaint concerning campus services that they write to the Daily Nebraskan. It seems to me that it would be both more effective and more constructive to go directly to the people involved. I don't think that the Daily Nebraskan is capable of putting up lights in the Crib.
