Gathering Place was created to help people find 'mission'

BY MELISSA DUNLEVY

The Gathering Place at 1448 E St. has been serving food since May 21, but it is not just a restaurant. It is a gathering place.

Director Joyce Sturdy said the Gathering Place was created not only to provide meals, but to bring attention to a belief that every person is born with a mission. At the Gathering Place Mrs. Sturdy hopes that everyone can find their mission by the friendship and instruction it offers.

"Here, a person is identified by what he does in society, not by his place in society," Mrs. Sturdy said. She said serving food is just a way to stimulate conversation. For a few days the Pied Piper Players, an acting troupe, lunched at the house. They performed mime and played the piano, and when the staff was busy they busied tables, too, Mrs. Sturdy said.

"That's the home type atmosphere we are trying to provide," she added.

Similar to Potter's House

The idea for the Gathering Place was conceived 10 years ago by Ruth Thone when she was in Washington, D.C. with her husband. Gov. Charles Thone was a congressman then. Mrs. Thone worked as a volunteer at the Potter's House, a ministry of the Church of the Savior. When she moved back to Nebraska she realized the need for a similar place in Lincoln.

In September, 1981, 35 people attended a meeting at the Westminster Presbyterian Church to gain support for the Gathering Place. Six of those who attended agreed to work toward a permanent home for such a center.

The six people were Ruth Thone, Naomi Hull, Dick Peterson, Linda Stevens, Don Tilley, and Joyce Sturdy. For almost two years now, those six founders have met on Wednesdays for worship, business, group building and personal support.

Raising money

The six-member group also contributes monthly to the non-profit organization. At least $2,000 must be raised monthly through private contributions for expenses. The money is raised by mail solicitations, contacts with organizations and by 15 people who give each month. Except for Mrs. Sturdy, a cook and a part-time custodian, the center depends on volunteers for both food service and educational development.

Each member of the six-member group brings something special to the center, Mrs. Sturdy said. For instance, Stevens, who works in prison ministry, wants to line the restaurant walls with paintings by prison artists.

Tilley, who spent time as a volunteer in a Thai refugee camp, wants to fill glass-fronted dining room cabinets with items crafted by refugees for sale.

Other rooms in the old mansion are being put to use besides the dining room. A room that was a library will become a small bookshop. The upstairs rooms will be used for classes, seminars, workshops, counseling, and self-help programs.

The Gathering Place serves lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Coffee and dessert is served from 8 to 11 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

GOP will drop unflattering ads

HUSTON (UPI) — Republican television advertisements using look-alike actors in unflattering portraits of House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and former President Carter will no longer be produced, the White House says.

In the House GOP campaign committee's television ads, actors pretending to be Carter and O'Neill chuckled over huge deficits for which the Republicans would like to blame the Democrats.

"It was worth the production cost to get Tip O'Neill as irritated as he was," laughed White House political affairs director Edward Rollins.

Announcing a halt to the ad campaign for which he said $2.6 million was allocated, Rollins explained, "They just didn't say anything." He said only those who follow politics closely would recognize the actors as portraying O'Neill and Carter.

But Chris Matthews, an aide to O'Neill, said, "The Republican ads were a lie, a dishonest ploy to shift blame for the Reagan recession."

He said ABC and NBC had refused to air the ads without verification for the claim that Democrats left Reagan a recession. CBS refused on the grounds that it was too early in the congressional campaign to show advertisements.

"The networks spotted the lie and refused to air them. The Republicans were caught in the lie and decided to cut their losses," Matthews said.

Matthews, who saw the ads aired by local affiliates in Washington, called them "the desperate kind of thing you do in a campaign when you're losing — you throw mud."

Big Red softball camp Tuesday

The second Big Red Softball camp begins Tuesday at the diamond behind Mabel Lee Hall.

About 30 girls, ranging from eighth graders to 1982 high school graduates, will practice hitting, throwing, fielding and pitching. The girls will be individually coached by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln head softball coach Nancy Plantz, her assistant, Peg Conrad and several Lady Huskers.
