

Energy tax breaks will end July 16

By The Associated Press

Only a few days remain before repeal of certain state sales and property tax breaks for alternative energy systems. Officials at the Nebraska Energy Office said applications for facility approval of alternative energy systems for sales tax refunds and property tax exemptions must be postmarked no later than July 16 for consideration under changes in state law.

Legislative Bill 799, which goes into effect July 16, repeals both the sales tax refund and the property tax exemption incentives available in recent years.

However, a legislative shift to income tax credits will remain in effect after the repeal.

V. B. "Buck" Balok, energy office director, noted LB799 provides for income tax credits to purchasers of renewable energy systems.

Balok said the income tax credits were designed by the 1982 Legislature to offer a greater incentive to Nebraskans considering installation of renewable energy systems.

He said the law was retroactive in the income tax credit figure.

Extraterrestrial captures earthling hearts with whimsy, real live fantasy

BY JIM ANDERSON

The movie "E.T." has stolen moviegoers hearts across the nation.

"It's about kids, the suburbs, a single parent family in middle California — very family oriented. A dying extraterrestrial, nicknamed 'E.T.' by the family's youngest son, Elliot, gives the film its name," said Edward K. Sell, manager of Lincoln's Stuart Theater.

The film's director, Steven Spielberg, is a storyteller, Sell said, like his friend George Lucas, creator of "Star Wars". Judging from the film's receipts, most moviegoers agree that this story is well told and directed.

Some viewers haven't been very excited about the movie.

Jenni Burrows, 22, of 1632 S. 21st St., was disappointed.

"I was disappointed in it (the movie)," Burrows said, "I expected better special effects. The little creature could have been more life-like, too."

But most viewers interviewed expressed the opinion of Jim Boeche, 21, of Seward.

"I've got to see it again," Boeche said, "it was fantastic."

Sell said the theater is now offering coupons which admit moviegoers to their sixth viewing of the film free of charge.

"E.T." is doing business like "Star Wars" (the biggest grossing film ever shown at the Stuart)," Sell said. The movie has been running for nearly a month at the Stuart and Sell said it's picking up more and more business every week.

Bicyclists for peace cross U.S., declare bomb is spiritual sickness

BY DIANNE LUTZI

A group of six bicycle across the United States through thundershowers and the hot sun to share their message. The Peace Peddlers talk to groups and individuals across the country about world peace through disarmament.

The Peace Peddlers stopped in Lincoln Friday and spoke with Lincolinites at the Gathering Place, 1448 E St.

"The bomb is a spiritual sickness," said Jonathan Vogel, a peace peddler. Even if the world gets rid of the bomb, it will still have injustice, Vogel said. People will still have the know-how to build bombs, Vogel said. First, people need to love each other and love God, Vogel said, to achieve world peace.

People hear so many horror stories of nuclear war, Vogel said. People fear the enemy and the bomb, he said. The Peace Peddlers want to help people look beyond fatalism and towards spiritualism, Vogel said. The Peace Peddlers want "to move towards the future positively" through faith. They want "to make a witness more visible to religion," Vogel said.

The public is learning to face fears and make the change towards spiritualism, Vogel said. The peace peddlers are helping to create a vision of how they want to see the world, Vogel said.

"More people are aware of this and us," said Lauren Crutcher, a peace peddler. "Many types of backgrounds are approaching this issue," Ms. Crutcher said.

The Peace Peddlers met through Quaker conferences and newsletters and got together to travel across the country to inform others on world peace, Ms. Crutcher said. A Quaker is a member of the Society of Friends.

They believe very much in what they are doing, said Peace Peddler Caryn Raschback, or they wouldn't be doing this.

The group started its journey on March 1 in San Francisco, Calif., and will end the journey at Washington, D.C., on October 18th, said Ms. Crutcher.

The trail picked for the journey includes cities which have uranium plants and where bombs are made and deployed, Vogel said. They will pedal on to Chicago, Connecticut and Washington, Vogel said.

The Peace Peddlers encourage everyone to register to vote to achieve world peace through disarmament, Vogel said.
