Sooner game coincides with dormitory closings

By Ward W. Triplett III

If you are living in a UNL residence hall this semester, you must vacate your room Thanksgiving weekend when the Oklahoma Sooners and Nebraska Huskers meet in their annual football battle in Lincoln. Doug Zatechka, director of housing, said that the office plans to close ten campus halls Nov. 24 in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday, and reopen them Nov. 28. The Husker-Sooner clash is scheduled for Nov. 26.

Zatechka said the cost of keeping the residence halls open through vacation, or reopening them the Friday before the game, would be too great considering that a large number of students will likely head home anyway.

"Studies of the student population have shown that 92 to 93 percent of the university students are from Nebraska. I would guess that a good many of those are from Eastern Nebraska and it would not be such a great burden on them to drive in for the game," Zatechka said.

The last time Nebraska battled the Sooners over a Thanksgiving weekend in Lincoln (a 20-17 Sooner win in 1976), Zatechka said that students either made the trip in, or found off-campus friends to stay with.

"During vacations, we keep a small area open for graduates and foreign students. These folks are housed because it's believed that they have an exceptionally long way to travel," Zatechka said.

Other students pay $5 a night fee if they wish to stay during holidays, but Zatechka said that fee would have to increase for the Thanksgiving weekend.

"Sure, there's a possibility we might do that, but a small one. Then who says where people are going to stay? We would have to open all the dorms because we can't move a person into someone else's room for a weekend. That means we would have to heat all the dorms, pay security. When you start adding up all the costs, you're way over $5 a night," Zatechka said.

"At the cost we would end up at, you could stay in a motel a little cheaper. So, while we could just have people pay per night, I don't consider that a feasibility," he said.

Greek NOTES

And there's something that you should know about the jackets from Nebraska Bookstore. At Nebraska Bookstore, we'll normally have your Greek tackle-twilled letters on the jacket in only two days.

Pick out your new jacket today for only $21.95—and that includes 2-3 Greek letters free of charge.

And what would Greek life be like without the traditional paddle or plaque? Certainly not as memorable. At Nebraska Bookstore, we'll help you create those memories. There's nothing quite like our selection of wooden products—15 different squares and rectangles, 11 different paddles, 4 types of ovals, and 2 types of key chains. We'll even special order customized paddles in walnut or cherry so that you get exactly what you want, when you want it.
