

GLC plans . . .

Doug Ronnau, GLC city liaison, will be talking with neighborhood groups in town.

"We've determined that in fact the UNL students are a community, and we'll be trying to hook in with the other neighborhoods," Nelson said. She cited nuclear waste transports on the railroads as one issue which closely concerns both the city and the university students.

Gina Reyman, GLC faculty liaison, will share student concerns with the UNL Faculty Senate, which first meets in September.

Tish Mockler will be GLC City Campus office liaison, while Greg Ibach will work in GLC's new office on East Campus.

Greg Meehan and Fran Grabowski will be GLC's high school liaisons. Nelson said they will work with high school groups like student councils and Boys and Girls State.

"We have a number of (high school) people who want to learn more about the university," Nelson said.

As Nebraska State Student Association liaison, Ruth Boham will coordinate contacts between GLC and the NSSA, a statewide student lobbying group to which UNL belongs.
