

Crew's new coach expects success

UNL crew coach Ashton Richards is optimistic about his team's chances this year.

"I don't think I'm being overly optimistic when I say we could have some Midwestern champions here," Richards said. "I'd like to think that we have one of the better teams in the Midwest."

Richards said the crew's workouts have been going well.

"We've got the varsity out on the water now," Richards said. "The freshmen are getting techniques down now. They should be on the water in a few days."

Cornhusker statistics among best in NCAA

Saturday's 42-7 Husker win against Iowa earned Nebraska high rankings in several national statistical categories according to information released Sunday by the NCAA office in Mission, Kan.

Nebraska ranks fifth in scoring offense, sixth in total defense, eighth in rushing offense, 10th in scoring defense, 11th in total offense and 16th in passing defense.

Cornhusker quarterback Turner Gill ranks seventh on the NCAA passing efficiency charts. Jeff Smith ranks eighth in punt returns, Mike Rozier 11th in rushing, Irving Fryar 12th in receiving, 13th in all-purpose yards and 14th in punt returns and Grant Campbell is 12th in punting.

This is Richards' first coaching job. He previously rowed at Syracuse University. He also was on the United States national youth team in 1977 and the U.S. team last year.

Richards said the crew is revamping its training techniques.

"We've been adapting different methods," Richards said. "We're going to be doing what the Eastern schools are doing. Everybody's rowing the same way now."

The crew has three meets scheduled this fall. The first is in Lawrence, Kan., Sept. 25. Other teams in the meet are Kansas, Kansas State, Creighton and possibly Notre Dame.

The team will then travel to Boston for a meet in October. The final meet of the fall season will be in Omaha at the end of October.

The crew is a club sport but competes at the varsity level. It supports its activities with donations, dues from crew members and activities such as bake sales.

After the fall season the team will train indoors for the winter.

"Most of the training during the winter is just improving on your strength and lung capacity," Richards said.

"I'd say that outside of Wisconsin, which has a varsity program, we are as good or better than the rest of the programs in the Midwest," Richards said. "It's quite a challenge, but it could pay off in the spring."
