Students work on gubernatorial race

"Student apathy is down, at least in my opinion," said Bob Schuller, chairman of the UNL Young Democrats.

Schuller was referring to student attitudes about the upcoming gubernatorial election between Democratic hopeful Robert Kerrey and Republican incumbent Charles Thone.

Doran Matzke, chairman of the Collegiates for Thone/Luedtke, said students seem to want to be more aware.

Matzke and Schuller both said their groups are still in the organizational stage of operations, but have been distributing information around campus and the community.

Matzke and a spokesman for the students in support of Kerrey said both groups have distributed leaflets at the state fair and around Memorial Stadium and downtown Lincoln on football Saturdays.

In addition, the Kerrey group plans to sponsor a fundraiser soon.

The Collegiates for Thone/Luedtke, which is a core group of about 20 students, plans to do some public relations work around campus and distribute yard signs about town.

Schuller said that after Sept. 28, when the UNL Young Democrats have their first meeting, the group will know exactly where it wants to focus the majority of its attention.

Small theft increasing on campus

Theft of wallets, backpacks and purses has increased significantly over the last two days on campus, said UNL police spokesman Bob Fey.

A pattern of theft has emerged, Fey said. Leaving a backpack or purse unattended may be asking for trouble.

"The key is leaving items unattended," Fey said. "When you are in an area where others are, watch your own item."

An attempted purse theft occurred Saturday at Love Library shortly after the football game, Fey said. A white male wearing a red bandana, red flannel shirt and blue jeans reached across a table to grab a purse. The owners of the purse saw him, and he saw her and left in a hurry, he said.

The suspect is described as 6'2", weighing around 200 pounds, with a black beard and mustache.
