The holiday season is a time for pre-Christmas sales as shown in a few of these sale flyers distributed in the Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star.

Exchange students . . .

The exchange students said that after the Christmas holidays, they hope to do many of things they aren't able to do in Japan. Takagi said he wants to go hunting and learn how to play racquetball before he returns to Japan in May.

Tsutsumi will take a dance class next semester because dance classes aren't offered at Nanzan University.

The Japanese students are not sure they will spend the entire semester break in Lincoln. They said they are considering doing some traveling in the southern part of the United States.

Wherever they are on New Years Day, Takagi and Tsutsumi will watch the Orange Bowl. They said they have found America's reaction to football quite intriguing. "People in Nebraska are very crazy about football," Takagi said.
