

Ag students to compete in quadrathlon

Four seniors majoring in agriculture at UNL will participate in a Regional Quadrathlon in Chicago March 19 through March 30.

The team, calling themselves R.B.'s Last Chance, in honor of UNL animal science Professor Richard B. Warren, will take tests, do laboratory practicums, be quizzed about animal science and give speeches while in Chicago.

The team qualified for the event by taking overall honors at a quadrathlon competition sponsored by the NU Block and Bridle Club. All four team members will compete individually and as a team, according to the categories offered, in divisional and overall competition.

The animal science majors are Jan Volk, Battle Creek; Ralph Robinson, Harrison; Jeff Miller, North Bend; and Scott Langemeier, an agricultural honors major from Schuyler.

ASUN discusses raffle, run-off

By Vicki Ruhga

The Faculty Senate Monday passed a resolution for a new Dead Week policy. ASUN Sen. Kris Mullen said at Wednesday's ASUN meeting.

The policy states that no finals can be given during Dead Week, and that a final scheduled for Friday of finals week can be moved to a different day during Finals Week, Mullen said.

No legislative action was taken at the ASUN Senate meeting because the senate did not have quorum.

Hal Koenig and Lori Smith, UNL graduate students, asked the senators to complete a questionnaire on political influence and power for UNL professor Tom Mayes. The results will be given at a later meeting, Koenig said.

Heidi Burklund of the Government Liaison Committee told senators that LB570, a bill to give businesses tax breaks for hiring students, and LR5, a bill to put the NU Board of Regents under legislative control, were killed in committee.

ASUN Sen. Clayton Reeves encouraged all senators to sell raffle tickets for the Student Watch Group, which works to prevent assaults and rapes on campus. If the $1 raffle tickets are not sold, the Watch Group probably would fold, Reeves said. The money from the tickets would be used to help install a Cablevision television service because the use of the equipment has been donated, he said.

ASUN President Dan Wedekind said the election run-off speaks positively of what the senate has been doing because both parties were formed from colleagues on the senate. He said it was also a good reflection on the senate because despite more newspaper coverage, Anarky, the joke party, actually received fewer votes than joke parties of past years.

Take Charge At 22.

In most jobs, at 22 you're near the bottom of the ladder.

In the Navy, at 22 you can be a leader. After just 16 weeks of leadership training, you're an officer. You'll have the kind of job your education and training prepared you for, and the decision-making authority you need to make the most of it.

As a college graduate and officer candidate, your Navy training is geared to making you a leader. There is no boot camp. Instead, you receive professional training to help you build the technical and management skills you'll need as a Navy officer.

This training is designed to instill confidence by first-hand experience. You learn by doing. On your first sea tour, you're responsible for managing the work of up to 30 men and the care of sophisticated equipment worth millions of dollars.

It's a bigger challenge and a lot more responsibility than most corporations give you at 22. The rewards are bigger, too. There's a comprehensive package of benefits, including special duty pay. The starting salary is $17,000—more than most companies would pay you right out of college. After four years, with regular promotions and pay increases, your salary will have increased to as much as $31,000.

As a Navy officer, you grow, through new challenges, new tests of your skills, and new opportunities to advance your education, including the possibility of attending graduate school while you're in the Navy.

Don't just take a job. Become a Navy officer, and take charge. Even at 22.
