ASUN Senate walks out on debate

By Vicki Ruhga

An ASUN Senate resolution supporting President Reagan and the May 5th National Day of Prayer was killed on the senate floor Wednesday night after two senators walked out during discussion, leaving the senate one short of quorum.

ASUN Sen. Laura Miyoshi, who moved the bill to the floor, said that if the resolution was not too controversial for the president of the United States to sign, it was not too political for ASUN. It is also non-dominational, she said.

The resolution also encouraged UNL students and faculty "to seek the guidance of Almighty God in the pursuit of life, liberty and prosperity."

ASUN Sen. Sunday Ezeadi said it was a ridiculous resolution. If the senate did not pass the resolution, it would ridicule the President by questioning his actions. If the resolution passed, it would also ridicule the president because it would mean that he is subject to ASUN's approval, he said.

However, Ezeadi agreed with ASUN Sen. Rhonda Greder's statement that the resolution may benefit UNL students by bringing National Prayer Day to their attention.

"We're representing international students, and we don't know what their religious beliefs are," ASUN senator Heidi Burklund said.

ASUN senator John Valdrighi said he questioned the resolution's relevance to ASUN.

"The national government considers the defense budget and millions of other things that we couldn't go through," Valdrighi said.

ASUN Sen. Sarma Paritali spoke in open forum about a $300 to $500 deposit which International Students must pay for telephones.

"Most international students cannot afford it," he said.

Greder said most students have to pay a deposit. She said she had to pay $100 deposit, and the telephone company told her it was a judgment call on each student.

Miyoshi suggested that the senate committees research the problem and see what is being done now and what can be done.

ASUN approved several appointments made by the appointments board. Mark Scudder will be Student Life Commission chairperson; George Babcock, academic commission chair; Andrea Bjorklund, electoral commission student at large.

Teaching Council members are Linus Langer, Kathy Hedges, Ellen Touchstone and Kristin Schleif.

Judicial Board members are T.J. Kinnick, Frank Podany, Mark Jepson, Karan Williams and Laura Meyer. Alternates are Dallas Jones, James McVay, Leanne Kullenberg and Tammy Kaup.

University Appeals Board members are Res Kuh Mary Marcy, Gayle Yamauchi and David White. Alternates are Craig Nelson, Kris Mullen and Todd Eakings.

Recreation Advisory Council members are Scott Slaggie and Paula Chace. Parking Appeals Board members are Dave Gaba, Steve Henning, and John Rausch. Parking Advisory members are Joel Ita, Andy Carothers, and Gaba; and Constitutions, Rick Hine and Tom Walsh.

denominations and sects and by acting as a catalyst to unite everyone in the world to foster harmony and peace.

For that, he said, Moon is persecuted. "Jesus was a reformer," he said. "Socrates was accused of being a brainwasher. It's a historical problem. He (Moon) has not come to tell us everything is alright. He's come to tell us the world is in a mess and to awaken America and make a revolution."

The media have falsely portrayed the Church because they can't understand them, he said.

Church members say they hope to find a farmhouse in the country where they can set up a church center. In the meantime, they continue to work in town, trying to win converts.

One person they contacted is Greg Keller, a 22-year-old education major at UNL. Although they did not try to coerce him, he said his defenses were up when he found out they were "Moonies."

He said he was walking to class when two women, Kazuko and Shizuko, stopped him around 12th and F streets and asked if he would talk with them. Their English was not too good, he said, but they did communicate their desire that he answer the items on their questionnaire. He described them as "nice-looking" and said they "smiled a lot."

"They weren't overbearing or pushy," he said. "That's what threw me off. They didn't fit my perception of what a Moonie looks like."

MAURICE BUCHANAN TURNED DOWN A BASKETBALL SCHOLARSHIP FOR AN ARMY ROTC SCHOLARSHIP.

"I knew I needed to go to college. I needed to get that ticket punched to be successful," says Maurice. "Why did I select an Army ROTC scholarship over a basketball scholarship? Because I knew I'd have a job after graduation. And that's more than a lot of my peers could say."

"I may stay in the military. But if I decide to get out, I've got the best job reference in the world—a commission in the United States Army."

Army ROTC can do the same for you.

Qualify, and you can win an ROTC scholarship, as Maurice did. Each scholarship covers tuition, books, and more.

Capt. Maurice Buchanan was a math major at the University of Georgia and a member of Army ROTC.

But even if you don't win one, as an ROTC cadet, you'll still receive financial assistance. Up to $1,000 a year for your last two years of ROTC.

If you'd like a job waiting for you after college, do what Maurice Buchanan did.

Apply for an Army ROTC scholarship. Today.
