The Catholic Church remains a vigorous part of the revolution — what the Nicaraguans call the continuing struggle. Priests serve as both the Minister of Culture and the Foreign Minister in the Sandinista government.

Aldrich said Nicaragua has expressed willingness for dialogue with the United States for the past two years and despite U.S. refusal, the revolution will stay an independent one.

"They're not going to give up the right to make their own internal decisions to anyone — not to the Soviets, not to the United States," Aldrich said.

She said when the United States closed down all the American consulates in Nicaragua, the immediate response from the Sandinistas was to no longer require visas from American visitors.

Holder and Aldrich are putting together a slide presentation that they will use to present another view of Nicaragua to various Lincoln groups. They plan a presentation Sept. 21 at 7 p.m. in the Nebraska Union. Aldrich said people interested in further information on Nicaragua should hear Francisco Campbell, formerly a head of agrarian reform and now a Nicaraguan consul. Campbell will speak Oct. 6 at the East Union during the afternoon, and at the Malone Center at 7:30 p.m.

Union Board to purchase word processing equipment

By Jonathan Taylor

The Union Board announced plans at their weekly meeting Tuesday to use part of their 1984 budget request of $189,500 to establish a word processing system at the Campus Activities and Programs Office.

Union Director Daryl Swanson said the new word processing equipment will supplement existing computer equipment, and will enable the unions to do their accounting on their own systems. The new computer hardware will also update the food services at the two unions and connect East Union to the existing accounting and payroll systems.

Swanson said although the board had no plans to spend a large amount of its budget on a single product, about $47,500 would be spent on computer equipment and office furnishings for the unions.

Another priority, Swanson said, will be the issue of fire and life safety. The board will spend $29,000 to meet and upgrade building requirements and fire and safety standards because deficiencies had been pointed out to the board.

Plans to amend Memorial Plaza guidelines were also discussed. The current rules allow any university organization to use the mall in front of the union, provided that the organization does not disrupt classes through the use of amplified sound. Concerts may not be scheduled before 3:30 p.m. If amended, an organization may only use the mall once a week and not more than four times a semester.

Organizations would be required to use union sound equipment at no charge and could not use amplified sound before 2:30 p.m., with no concerts taking place before 3:30 p.m. Swansons said last year groups demonstrated every day and wore out their welcome. Organizations should not be allowed to impose themselves on students during the mid-day high-use periods around the fountain, he said.
