Huskers will bury Gophers

College football fans should have all the action they want this weekend as the networks bring us two great games — Texas at Auburn and Ohio State at Oklahoma. But let's not forget:

Nebraska at Minnesota. The Wyoming game revealed the Nebraska defense still has some holes. You can bet that Minnesota noticed this and the information won't go to waste.

But, the game also showed the only thing that can stop Nebraska's offense is itself.

Minnesota likely will come out throwing the ball, but that should only cause temporary problems for the Huskers. Tom's Troops win another one: Nebraska 40, Minnesota 14.

Ohio State at Oklahoma. I have a confession to make. I did root for Oklahoma once. It was in 1977, against Woody Hayes and his Buckeyes. It was a little like a heavyweight fight between Idi Amin and Pol Pot. You can't remain neutral.

So I threw in my lot with Pol Pot Switzer over Idi Hayes. And the Cambodians came through with a thrilling 29-28 win.

Sometimes I can't sleep at night, but I think it was the right decision. It was certainly one of the greatest moral dilemmas of my life.
