Nebrailyskan

KAL incident tragic for student

By Robert MeDonald and Tert Sperry
The world was shocked $2 \%$ weeks ago when a South Korean airplane was shot down over Soviet territory; and 260 passengers were killed.

While most people overcame the shock and began to speculate about the causes and consequences, several thoussand friends and relatives of the victims grieved. To them, it was more than an international

Okon Hwan, a UNL student, is one of the grievers. Okon Hwan, a UNL student, is one of the grievers, Her former piano tee

The late Jung Ju Oh , professor of piano pedagogy at Korea University, was on her way to Seoul Sept. I, after having completed a trip to the United States. She had traveled to this country to help her move to an lvy League university, Hwan said.
Hwan learned of her friend and teacher's death a Hwan learned or her friend and teachers death a phoned her from South Korea, she said.

Hwan said she was very upset to hear the news, because she considered her relationship with Oh very special.

She taught me to play the piano correctly. . . Because of this, I was able to get into Seoul National University, the best music college in Korea," she said. Kwan, 28, said she owes her current position as a first-year graduate student at UNL's School of Music, in large part, to Oh.
"She was a great instructor - very famous to mesicians throughout my country," Hwan said.
Hwan said she had known Oh for about five years, and had studied with her for one year. In that time, Oh and Hwan's mother had become close friends Hwan said. Hwan also knew Oh's two children.
Hwan saw Oh for the last time in Seoul at her piano teacher's home.
II went to her home to thank her for all that she had done for me. It was she who wrote my recommendation to this university," she said.
Her memory of Oh , whom she believes to have been in her early 50 s, is of "a really nice, warm and moreover, a very beautiful woman."

Hwan, a musicology major, said she doesn't know much about politics. She said she does not believe it is her place to discuss the Soviet Union's actions and is her piace to discu
"I really don't want to think about that," she said. She did say, however, that she beilieves Korea should take harsher measures against the U.S.S.R. to make up for the suffering of so many people.
Hwan said she was sad because she knows nothing can ever make up for the death of Jung Ju Oh.
"Ithink she was the perfect woman. Her death is a great loss to my country and to myself," she ssid.

Otion Hivan
 All bets are on as racing action begins at Lincoln's rece track.

First day at the races big bets on fleet feet

By Jim Rasmussen
A sunny fall day greeted a crowd The Incoln Falingrounde ricetracts the Lincoln rairgrounds racetracir pel fill A total of 8508,436 was wagered In the 10 races a spokemann for the vebraska State Racing Comintitaion: ald.
"Bverything went great for pening day" Track Manngar Heniry randt beid.
Anna Steler of Monnoe seld the id her son traveled to tincoln for fe raceo Tuat because th' opening
I. love to watch the hornas," she id. And of course it helpe if you in money. thano funir you lose all extime echal vystelinf or betting.
"Just take chances on "em," she sald.

Gres Edwards, o UNL Junior majoring in engineering, said he enjoys the excltement of the races. You sit there and try to ligure out which horse will win, and when your horse comes in first, itts exciting, "he Puth Dorn, a Lincoln resident, suld ahe goes to the races to get out of the houpe, to got away from work, and to win money.
Dorn seld she attends the races every day, but wouldn't clasily her--ltas a racing expert.
"Sometimes I know 'ein, and dometimes I don't,'she said.
Brandt sald the horses will rur Yodradays through Sundays until Nov. 13 , the litit day of the season. 3n puts" Brander aida.
$\qquad$

Workshop presents recreation, fitness programs for the disabled

By John Foopman

In recent years public and private institutions have placed great emphasis on making bundings more accessible to people with disabiities Most physical fitness and recreation programs, however, have not yet been To help integrate disabled indiviTo heip integrate disabied individuals into recreation programs, the League of Human Dignity and the League of Human Dignity and the worlcshop to ald various health-care woricsiop to aid various health-care existing programs to meet the needs of the disabled.
The culmination of a year's work and research, the first workshop was presented Thursday and Friday at Southeast Communtty College. Stx teen professionals attended the workshop which included a series of lectures, discussions and practical exercises.
the league, said the project began because of complaints voiced by disabled persons in the community who found it difficult to gain admittance to area fitness and recreation programs.
She said the league conducted a needs assessment in the community and-seat letcers to yaryous cusabied people to determine the types o or the propranted.
Or: the prograps available to the disabled, she said, the needs asindividuals, disabled or not. Most ndividuais, disabied or not, most programs availabie to the disabled, she said, consisted of one-time specia Rost said the league found the majority of disabled people responded that they would prefer to participate in programs with both noll-dlsabled and disebled people.
Much of the diacusalon at the worlohop centered on tha importance of attitudes when woricing with digabled persons.
"People etther make the assumption that we can do something that we can't, or that we eant do kiything, said Skip McKeeman, league in-

Is disabled, Nancy Erickson, project coordi-

 Nancy Erickson, project coordi-nator for the league, explained the use nator for the league, explained the use and misuse of words and how they said words Hike cripple, victim, of said words like cripple, victim, afflicted, suffers from, and vegetable should never be used.
"A lot of disabled persons' problems have to do with our attitudes toward each other," she said.
Brickson and McKeeman made their comments during a panel discussion Thursday dealing with disability information and accessibility and transportation problems.

After the panel discussion, the group divided into sections to practice disability simulation. Each person either was blindfolded, had cotton atuffed in his ears, or was confined to a wheelchair.
After being assigned a disability, the groups wandered the halls of the college and tried to perform certain social functions, such as going to the bethroom, getting a drink of water and asking a stranger for help.

Comtinued on Page?   \section*{ \section*{   \section*{ \section*{   \section*{ \section*{                                                                                                                                                                            }    }    }

