Has Purchasing Jewelry Got You Puzzled?

ALL DIAMONDS ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL

Many so-called "sale diamonds" are merely diamonds of much lower quality. When shopping, ask to see the diamond under magnification in a ten power binocular microscope, such as Sartor Hamann's Diamondscope.

COMPARISON WILL SHOW YOU WHY THE STATE'S BEST VALUES IN FINE DIAMONDS HAVE COME FROM SARTOR HAMANN FOR ALMOST 80 YEARS.

'Celebrity Swing' aids youth

More than 10 film stars, television celebrities and sports figures will display their golfing skills in Lincoln Friday at the "Celebrity Swing for Youth" Golf Classic.

Linda Lewis, public information specialist with the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs, said the golf classic's purpose is to increase public awareness of the new School Community Intervention Program.

The program started this fall in the Lincoln public schools and the Bryan Extension Center, 1801 S. 40th St., uses an "intervention team" approach to help students who may have problems with alcohol and drugs.

The intervention teams are made up of coaches, teachers, nurses, administrators and others. These people are trained to recognize drug-related behavior in students, and to assist these students to achieve and maintain a drug-free lifestyle.

Some of the celebrities scheduled to participate in the "Celebrity Swing" are: David Doyle, star of stage, screen and television; Meredith MacRae, TV and film actress; Gordon MacRae, film star and singer; Grant Goodeve, an actor on "Eight is Enough" and "Dynasty"; Lou Johnson, former baseball star with the Los Angeles Dodgers; Ryns Duran, former major league baseball pitcher; Marlin Briscoe, former National Football League receiver; Claude Retherford, former Nebraska basketball star and Bob Devaney, UNL athletic director and former coaching great.

Morey Amsterdam, who played Buddy Sorell on "The Dick Van Dyke Show", also may attend, Lewis said.

The golf classic will begin Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the Lincoln Country Club. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.
