Indian Day to feature dancing, food and fun

Ceremonial dancing, Indian hand games and a traditional Indian meal will be part of the first annual American Indian Day celebration today at the Lincoln Indian Center, 1100 Military Road.

The University Program Council Tri-Culture/Native American Special Events is co-sponsoring the events along with several other Lincoln Indian organizations, said Debbie Coffey, Native American Special Events chairperson.

Events begin at 6 p.m. with an Indian hand game, to be played by members of several Nebraska tribes. The game involves an Indian bead or dice that is hidden among one of the two teams playing the game. The players must guess who has the object and try to outsmart members of the other team.

A traditional Indian supper will be served between 8 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., with Governor's Assistant Bill Kerrey as a guest.

After the meal, traditional war dancing will highlight the evening's events.

"This is the most spectacular part, when we're all in costume and doing our war dances," Coffey said. "It's a good time for us to reflect on our culture."

American Indian Day was established in this year's session of the Nebraska Legislature, and approved by Gov. Bob Kerrey in May. The legislative bill says the day is an attempt "to establish a day in recognition of American Indians; to provide duties; to urge observation of such day."

"It's a great way to get all the Native Americans together and to celebrate our culture," Coffey said. "We were the first residents of Nebraska, but now we are unrecognized by many citizens."

Coffey is recruiting Native Americans on campus "to establish and maintain a committee designed to serve the various needs and interests of Native Americans within the UNL student body."

Interested students should contact Jackie Caven-ter at the Campus Activities and Programs office, 472-2454.

Corrections

In Friday's Off The Wire column, a line was inadvertently left out of the item titled "Newest state joins UN." The first sentence should have read: UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council Thursday unanimously endorsed the application of Saint Christopher and Nevis, the world's newest state, for admission to the United Nations today (Friday) as the 158th member.

Senators on TV give Watt mixed reviews

WASHINGTON — A leading Senate Republican, Robert Packwood of Oregon, Sunday called Interior Secretary James Watt "an insulting embarrassment" to President Reagan and the Republican Party. He predicted Watt would be out of office within the week.

Watt, whose environmental policies and conservative views have been a source of controversy from the day he joined the administration, last week described the makeup of a panel that he appointed to review coal leasing policies as "a black, a woman, two Jews and a cripple." Although Watt has since apologized for the remarks, 10 Republican senators have called for his resignation, and a Senate measure urging him to leave could come up for a vote later this week.

Packwood, interviewed on CBS's "Face The Nation," said the Interior Secretary's comments reflected a lack of sensitivity and were offensive to all segments of the United States.

But assistant Senate Republican leader Ted Stevens of Alaska, interviewed on the same program, said there is no reason for the Interior Secretary to resign. He said Watt is doing a good job of carrying out the president's environmental policies and that it would be a mistake for the president to fire him.

Shultz: Goals continue

NEW YORK — Secretary of State George Shultz said Sunday there would be no change in U.S. goals in Lebanon or the Marines' role there in the aftermath of an agreement to end fighting in that country. He said the United States would continue its diplomatic efforts for the withdrawal of all foreign military forces from Lebanon.

"The U.S. Marine mission remains important and remains unchanged," he said. Shultz said the ceasefire accord "hits exactly the right note."

IRA prisoners escape

BELFAST — More than 30 Irish Republican Army prisoners staged the biggest jailbreak in Northern Ireland's history Sunday, killing a prison officer and injuring several others in making their escape. Officials said 38 men escaped from the Maze Prison, but at least 10 were recaptured. Those still at large were believed to be heading either for the Irish Republic or for the Catholic areas of Belfast.

The escape occurred in late afternoon just before a truck hauling tea arrived at the cell block. The men used handguns and other weapons to overpower their guards. One officer was shot in the head and seriously wounded, officials said.

Several prisoners donned guards' uniforms and hijacked the truck. Other prisoners, some in their underwear, jumped in the back and the truck sped off, officials said. But an officer blocked the main gate with his car, forcing the men to flee on foot. A prison officer was stabbed near the gate and died shortly afterwards, officials said.

Thatcher visits Canada

OTTAWA — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher arrived in Ottawa Sunday night for a three-day official visit to Canada. Thatcher is scheduled to confer today with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau before meeting opposition Conservative leader Brian Mulroney. She will address Parliament and will speak at a press conference.

Rebels control 5 towns

SAN SALVADOR — Leftist Salvadoran guerrillas Sunday said they were in control of five towns in the eastern part of the country and reported fresh clashes with the army. Insurgent Radio Venceremos said rebels had inflicted more than 100 casualties on the U.S.-backed army as fighting continued near the town of Nuevo Eden de San Juan in the province of San Miguel.
