Applications available for new ISO officers

The International Students' Organization is now accepting applications and nominations for officers for the 1983-84 term, ISO's president announced Sunday.

Soala Ariweriokuma said positions for president, vice president, secretary, publicity secretary, social secretary, ASUN representative and treasurer are open.

Candidates must be in good standing academically, have a 2.5 GPA and be registered as a full-time student.

The ISO acts as a liaison between ASUN and international students.

Last year, ISO sponsored various activities, such as its annual international banquet. It also started a program by which students personally welcomed newly arriving foreign students by meeting them at the airport and helping them to get settled on campus.

Officer application and nomination forms must be submitted to Ariweriokuma or Judy Wendorff at the International Educational Services Office, Nebraska Union 345, by Oct. 21. Elections will be Oct. 28.

Memphis celebrates blues

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Warm fall sunshine, 4,000 celebrators and millions of dollars in public and private funds revived Beale Street Saturday, bringing music back to the birthplace of the blues. The official dedication of a two-block section of Beale Street, where W.C. Handy wrote "Memphis Blues," where Bessie Smith and B.B. King sang and played, where Elvis Presley came to listen and buy his clothes, marked the success of a 15-year historic renewal project.

Music will be emphasized all week on Beale Street, with bands playing at Handy Park and a free concert by singer Lou Rawls and country blues singer Charlie Rich Saturday.

El Salvador loses adviser

SAN SALVADOR — The United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) will withdraw its adviser to a Salvadoran literacy campaign that was set up three years ago, education ministry officials said. The Salvadoran government views the campaign as a cornerstone of its social reform program, but right-wingers oppose the campaign, claiming it politicizes the country's peasants. One in four people in El Salvador are estimated to be illiterate.

UNESCO decided to pull out its adviser because at least three campaign workers have been killed since July by the secret Anti-Communist Army the officials said. UNESCO has not made a formal announcement of its withdrawal.

Grenade injures boys

BELFAST — Two boys were seriously injured in Northern Ireland Sunday when a grenade thrown at a police car by guerillas missed its target and exploded in a nearby house. The boys, 12 and 17 years old, were hit in the stomach by shrapnel. They underwent emergency surgery. Police said no policemen were hurt. They said extra security forces joined the search for the attackers, who are thought to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is fighting to end British rule in the province.
