The Most Sophisticated Training Ground For Nuclear Engineering Isn't On The Ground.

It's on a Navy ship.

The Navy has more than 1,900 reactor-years of nuclear power experience — more than anyone else in America. The Navy has the most sophisticated nuclear equipment in the world. And the Navy operates over half of the nuclear reactors in America.

With a nuclear program like that, you know the Navy also offers the most comprehensive and sophisticated nuclear training.

Every officer in the Nuclear Navy completes a full year of graduate level technical training. Outside the Navy, this kind of program would cost you thousands. In the Navy, you're paid while you learn.

Then, as a nuclear-trained officer, you supervise highly trained personnel in the operation of the most advanced nuclear propulsion plants ever developed. You get a level of technical and management experience unequalled anywhere else.

You get important responsibilities and you get them fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so do your responsibilities.

Today's Nuclear Navy is one of the most challenging and rewarding career choices a man can make. And that choice can pay off while you're still in school. Qualified juniors and seniors earn approximately $1,000 per month while they finish school.

As a nuclear-trained officer, after 4 years with regular promotions and pay increases, you can be earning as much as $40,500. That's on top of a full benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned each year.

As a nuclear-trained officer, you also earn a place among this nation's most qualified and respected professionals. So, if you're majoring in math, engineering or the physical sciences, send in the coupon. Find out more about the most sophisticated training ground for nuclear engineering. Today's Nuclear Navy.

Carson, Rogers shows not really 'SPECIAL'

Television review by Mike Frost

As I huddled next to my television set, trying to fight the cold seeping in from the poorly caulked wall, my trembling fingers reached for the dial. Hoping to wipe from my mind the blizzard raging outside, my attention was immediately grabbed by the big, bright, colorful word "SPECIAL."

The "SPECIAL" turned out to be "Johnny Carson's Greatest Practical Jokes." Actually, the title was somewhat eponymous, since the entire program seemed much like a practical joke.

There was Johnny, yukking it up with all his celebrity friends. Ed McMahon's chauffeured limousine was searched, to reveal NBC property Johnny had deviously placed. Joan Rivers, en route to Las Vegas for supper, chatted with a woman who looked an awful lot like Margaret Thatcher, but in actuality was an imposter planted by that mischief meister himself, Johnny Carson.

After each stunt, Johnny would discuss at length with the celebrity what it felt like to be made a fool of. Surprisingly enough, most said it felt pretty darn good.
