Group promotes philosophy

A new organization for the advancement of philosophy had its first meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Nebraska Union.

The local chapter of Phi Sigma Tau, a national philosophy honorary, was founded "to popularize philosophy among the general collegiate public. The chapter is a means for developing and honoring academic excellence and philosophical interest," said Bill Benner, a UNL sophomore.

Benner, a philosophy major, said Phi Sigma Tau is open to both students and faculty members from any field.

"We want to encourage outside members to attend," he said.

Benner said he hopes that Phi Sigma Tau will be able to meet each month and to elect officers next semester.

The honorary will present students' papers and give students a chance to discuss them. It will also sponsor debates on philosophical issues. Upcoming speakers will include a political science professor and a military officer.

Benner founded the local chapter because there wasn't anything like it in Lincoln, he said.

"I looked for a club like this to join. I talked to some of the philosophy faculty on how to get started," he said.

Robert Anderson, a UNL philosophy professor, will be the faculty adviser to the honorary, Benner said.

Although only 12 people attended the meeting, Benner said he has had at least 30 people express interest in such an organization.

"We're trying to get the word out," he said.

Center evacuated for fumes

The Lincoln Fire Department evacuated the Lincoln Center for Community Services, 215 Centennial Mall South Tuesday after employees there detected fumes around 10 a.m.

Fire department Capt. Richard Pickel said someone poured a commercial drain cleaner into a sink in one of the offices to clear a stopped drain. However, the drain did not clear and the sulfuric acid fumes from the cleaner entered the building's ventilation system, he said.

Mike Clements, chief of Lincoln Fire Department Station 1, said the department sent two engines to the building. A hazardous materials van and a compressor to fill air tanks also were sent. Clements said the tanks were used to clear the air in the building. He said firefighters also opened up all doors in the building and turned on the air conditioning to speed up circulation.

Pickel said the fumes caused no illnesses or injuries and the evacuation was "nothing serious, just a precautionary procedure."
