

Better dental health goal of class

By Deb Pederson

Although February is National Dental Health month, the UNL Dental College will introduce its New Parent classes in March.

Robert Sullivan, professor of pedodontics, said the New Parent classes will be a follow-up to the American Dental Association's month.

Sullivan said the national event started as a public health week for children many years ago and expanded into the current format in Canada and the United States. Programs and services are provided on the national level through state and district organizations, he said.

"Sponsors such as Crest," Sullivan said, "provide dentists with dental care items like toothbrushes and toothpaste for public awareness of dental hygiene."

To reinforce and expand public awareness, the Dental College is providing New Parent classes starting in March, Sullivan said. The classes will provide information and community services.

"The classes are designed for parents and children," Sullivan said. "The goal is to improve dental health, especially with the children."

Sullivan said the classes have been scheduled at a time when both parent and child can attend.

The free classes will be once a month at 3 p.m. in room 11 of the Dental College starting March 20.

College of Dentistry faculty, undergraduate and graduate students will teach the classes, Sullivan said.

Topics covered in the classes include dental disease and prevention, normal patient procedures at the College of Dentistry, new products such as types of fillings and fluorides, where services are located and when they are available, Sullivan said.

New budget proposals show no deficit decline

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's budget proposals for the 1983 financial year will show almost no decline in federal budget deficits over the next three years, an administration source said Tuesday. Reagan's tax and spending blueprint, which will be made public Feb. 1, says the federal deficit will total about $184 billion in the 1984 financial year that began last Oct. 1 and will still be at the $180 billion level in financial 1987, the source said. Last summer, the administration released a set of figures showing a much more rapid decline in the deficit to about $118 billion in the 1987 financial year. The large budget deficits are a potential political liability for Reagan, who won the election in 1980 on a platform that promised a balanced federal budget by 1984.

During the campaign, Reagan blamed large budget deficits for record U.S. inflation rates. He succeeded in cutting inflation, but the deficit was soured from about $60 billion in 1980 to $195 billion last year.

Afghans say they invaded Russia

MESHED, Iran — Afghan guerrillas fighting a bitter "holy war" against Soviet and government troops in Afghanistan's northwestern Herat province say they have struck inside the Soviet Union itself. Leaders of the fundamentalist Moslem rebels interviewed in this Eastern Iranian city near the Afghan border, said they last raided inside Soviet territory about two weeks ago. In their attack on a Soviet customs post at Torghundi, on the Soviet-Afghan border, the guerrillas killed several guards and captured some arms and ammunition, the leaders said. The customs post was on the main road between Herat and the Soviet Central Asian city of Merv. Sayed Mohammad Kheirhah, who said he was a rebel political officer in the Herat area, painted a grim picture of the historically strategic area. Fighting there was incessant, he said, and Soviet bombardments were killing many civilians.

Kohl: Nazis were 'disgrace'

JERUSALEM — West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, greeted by anti-German demonstrators on his arrival in mankind and his country accepted full responsibility for the holocaust that killed six million Jews. "The face of man was disgraced in the name of Germany," he said. "It is impossible for us today to imagine what happened then. But it did happen, and Germany bears responsibility for it in history," he said at a dinner given by Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir at the start of Kohl's five-day visit.

Kohl, who was 15 when World War II ended, said he spoke for a new German nation, most of whose citizens were not yet born when the Nazis committed their crimes. He said he hoped his visit, only the second by a German chancellor, would help "bridge the terrible chasm of the past" and that the younger generation of Germans regarded the country's history not as a burden, but as a challenge.

Blizzards blast Great Britain

LONDON — Storms and blizzards lashed Britain Tuesday sinking a ship and drowning 13 merchant sailors and raising the death toll to 24 since the weekend. The blizzards, which have swept northern and central Britain since Saturday, have killed at least 11 other people, trapped thousands of travelers and isolated dozens of villages.

Police said ships and helicopters picked up 13 bodies and nine survivors off the Channel Island of Guernsey after the 2,997-ton Radiant Med, a Liberian-registered grain ship, sank in violent seas. Three seamen were unaccounted for. The crew of the Radiant Med, carrying grain from Belgium to Africa, were Filipino and the officers Indian, police said.

Scottish rescue teams scoured the Cairngorm Mountains for two soldiers missing since the weekend.
