Health Center begins search for student health aides

The University Health Center is looking for a few healthy people for the 1984-1985 academic year.

Recruitment now is taking place for health aides, students who live on campus and link students and the health center, said program supervisor Janet Crawford.

"Health aides provide first-aid to people in the living unit," Crawford said. "They treat some kinds of scaled-down illnesses and have a health kit. They also provide health information."

While serving as health aides, students take a Public Health class for college credit, said program supervisor Margaret Pavelka.

Besides the class, health aides are expected to be certified in both cardiopulmonary resuscitation and in first aid, Pavelka said. The Health Center helps enroll the student in certification classes.

Some health aide activities include writing a health tip each semester, doing a project involving health, helping with Wellness Week, providing information and referring students to the Health Center when appropriate, Crawford said. They submit weekly reports to the supervisor.

Health aides receive $8 a week. The public health course books are loaned to the students by the Health Center.

The grade for the class is based on work done outside of class, such as the health tips. The activities have point values, which are computed with the class and exam grade to get the final grade, Pavelka said.

Application packets can be picked up in 106 University Health Center or from a health aide.

There are approximately 130 positions available, Crawford said.

Party to break vows

By Kirk Zebolsky

The Birthday Party promises to break all campaign promises if elected to the ASUN senate.

Presidential candidate Roger Knee, vice presidential candidate Garth Thomson and second vice presidential candidate Rob Kubik announced their write-in candidacies at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16 in the main TV lounge of Selleck 7000 Residence Hall.

Knee said the party name "is symbolic of the festive nature of our party." The party mascot is Bimbo the Birthday Clown.

Knee, a pre-med sophomore, said he was the dodge ball champion of his fifth-grade class and the best "no hands" bicycle rider of his block.

Knee said he also carries a Phillips Petroleum card.

Thomson, a Teacher's College sophomore, has had a library card since he was eight years old, and has been to the State Capitol.

Kubik, an electrical engineering freshman, was the shortest player on his high school football team and owns two pool cues.

The Birthday Party promises to level the Rocky Mountains and fill the Great Lakes, causing the entire country to resemble Nebraska. Knee said this would make obsolete the Roo Party's plan for a North Dakota-South Dakota border patrol.
