Annual RHA food fast allows hall residents to help drug council

The Residence Hall Association is having its annual Food Fast March 7 to raise money for the Lincoln Council on Drugs and Alcohol, said the RHA vice president.

"Alcohol and drugs are a major concern in the halls," Dave Edwards said. "This was taken into consideration when we chose the charity."

More than 140 students are anticipated to participate in the food fast, Edwards said.

To participate, students fill out a form with their signature and Vali-dine number, he said. The forms were distributed by RHA representatives.

"We had a contest to see which representative could sign up the most people," Edwards said.

The winner was Deb Baker of Nelhardt, who signed up 82 people. Her prize is a donated dinner for two at Brittany's Grand Edibles & Spirits, Edwards said.

The forms are then collected and checked off of a master list supplied by the UNL housing department, he said.

"The Vali-dine numbers are punched in at Housing, and dinner for Wednesday night is edited out," Edwards said.

The cost of the missed meal then is donated to the charity. RHA expects to bring in about $400.

The cost of putting on the project is about $30, Edwards said. About five to six people from the social program committee set up the project.

"This project is good for such a nice return and it's such a minimal amount of work," Edwards said. "You just need to publicize."

RHA has had the food fast for a community service project for several years, he said.

Lebanon declares pact with Israel null and void

BEIRUT — The Lebanese government of President Amin Gemayel Monday declared its U.S.-negotiated security and troop withdrawal agreement with Israel null and void in a move which cleared away the last obstacle to talks between warring Lebanese factions.

In a swift reaction from Israel, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said the Lebanese decision was a surrender to Syria and a death sentence for Lebanese sovereignty. Before the announcement Israeli warplanes made two bombing raids on what they said were Palestinian targets near mountain towns southeast of Beirut. A cease-fire was declared by the warring factions but sporadic violence continued. A French soldier was killed by a rocket and a U.S. colonel was shot and wounded near the U.S. Embassy by a man with a pistol. The militia leaders, allies of Syria, had been demanding the accord be scrapped as a condition for attending a second round of national reconciliation talks in Switzerland.

U.S.: Iraq used chemical weapons

PORTLAND, Maine — Walter Mondale Monday conceded he is in trouble in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination after Sen. Gary Hart's surprise victory in Sunday's Maine caucuses.

"I am in trouble, I need help," Mondale said in a morning interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program. Hart swept aside Mondale in 412 Maine community caucuses for his second upset win in a week. Though Mondale spent $400,000 in Maine and according to pre-voting polls was ahead, Hart won five percent more of the vote while spending only $40,000.

"It's going to give us a great boost," Hart said in Boston after the results were announced. He faces Mondale again today in Vermont's primary.

D'Aubisson denied U.S. visa

WASHINGTON — A State Department official said Monday Roberto D'Aubisson, a right-wing candidate for president of El Salvador, had been refused a visa to visit the United States. According to spokesman John Hughes, D'Aubisson asked for a visa to be attached to his diplomatic passport but the passport was being returned because of a question about its validity.

D'Aubisson, who has been linked to rightist Salvadoran death squads, also was denied a visa last November. The department at that time cited grounds of U.S. national interests, linking the denial to reports of D'Aubisson's association with death squads. There had been no change in the situation since then, Hughes said Monday.

The Reagan administration preferred that none of the Salvadoran presidential candidates "bring their campaign to the United States" before the March 25 presidential elections, he said.

State-sponsored Nativities OK'd

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled 5-4 Monday that state and local governments may sponsor Christmas displays which include nativity scenes. Two lower federal courts had ruled that government sponsorship in such cases violated the constitutional separation of church and state. The case before the high court involved the city of Pawtucket, R.I., which annually erects a Christmas display in a park owned by a non-profit organization and located in the heart of the city's shopping district.
