Craig Andresson/Daily Nebraskan
 Paul Heydt offers some friendly words of advice at Bad Comedy Night.

Comedy night gets everybody in act

By Mary C. Reilly

Live! From downtown Lincoln, it's Bad Comedy Night! Now in its seventh week, Bad Comedy Night, a weekly event at Patoot's Saloon, 808 P St., packs in a full crowd. And Rollin' Ray, Craig Anton and the Baker Boys are there every Thursday night to fill your evening with laughter. One particularly funny routine at Bad Comedy Night could be called, "Mr. Microphone and the Street Revue." The masters of ceremonies and one or two of the performers take Mr. Microphone out on the street and interview passers-by, or catch a few quick statements from unsuspecting drivers.

comedy in Lincoln. We felt there were better places, physically, to do comedy in Lincoln, than what was being done," Patton said. "The Zoo only does this once a month, but we go every week," Patton said. "We have been pulling away a lot of Thursday night business from other bars in Lincoln," Larsen said. Bad Comedy Night has a $2 cover charge, a relatively low price as far as entertainment covers go. "We try to provide what the public wants," Patton said. Since the comedy night started a month and a half ago, a respectable crowd of regulars has developed, Patton said.

Everyone on the inside can hear what's going on, but unsuspecting sidewalkers have no idea what's up. Mark Patton, one of the masters of ceremonies, and fellow Patoot's employee, Keith Larsen, came up with the idea and presented it to their management. "We wanted to see some different

The atmosphere is different than at other bars. The crowd seems to be very friendly and to know each other. Comfortable laughter fills the air as comedians proceed with their routines. Comments, jokes, and catcalls are offered non-stop by customers, and they are even encouraged. At Bad Comedy Night, everyone seems to get in the act. Continued on Page 9
