Reagan, Deng stumble over sales to Taiwan

PEKING — President Reagan's talks with Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping in China this weekend have underlined that U.S. support for Taiwan is still the key stumbling block to the developing Sino-American relationship. The two leaders discussed U.S. arms sales to the Chinese nationalists of Taiwan, who have defied Peking with U.S. support since 1949. Although Reagan and Deng emerged smiling from the meeting, they reported no progress on the issue. According to diplomats in Peking, Deng is torn between the need for U.S. technology to speed China's modernization and leftist pressure within the Communist Party to shun contacts with the United States as long as it supports Taipei. Reagan, who throughout most of his political career has condemned communism and backed the Chinese nationalists, also must contend with political pressures from the Republican right wing which still opposes dealings with Peking. The United States will not abandon old friends on Taiwan to make new ones elsewhere, Reagan said before he left Washington.

By old friends Reagan meant the nationalists, who lost to the Communists in the Chinese civil war but have continued to rule Taiwan since 1949 under the banner of the "Republic of China."

Train kills four on Texas bridge

KINGSVILLE, Texas — A freight train plowed into a group of illegal aliens on a railroad bridge Sunday night, killing a man, two women and one child and injuring seven others, police said. The aliens, all Salvadorans, were walking along the 40-foot-high open bridge above a creek about 60 miles north of the Texas-Mexico border, Kenedy County Sheriff Jim Chandler said. The dead included a man, between 30 and 35, a 38-year-old woman and her 21-year-old daughter, he said. One of the girls died in a hospital today. Some of those injured were reported in serious condition. A railroad spokesman said the train traveling at about 40 miles an hour, approached the bridge from around a curve and the engineer did not have enough time to stop after seeing the group on the track ahead. Chandler said the aliens had entered the United States from Mexico, probably near the border town of Brownsville. Chandler said the aliens told police they were being escorted by smugglers who had charged them $600 each to take them across the border to Houston where they had jobs waiting. They had been traveling in vehicles on a road but left them to walk along the bridge in an effort to go around a border patrol checkpoint, Chandler said.

Nuclear site opens with problem

SAN LUIS OBISPO, California — The Diablo Canyon nuclear power station finally began low power testing Sunday, eight years behind target, billions of dollars over budget and with a technical problem. Ten hours after the test began, station officials said they had reported to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission what they classified as an unusual event — some non-radioactive water in the station wrongly flowed into a holding tank. The officials said the situation, which presented no danger, was corrected within an hour and the test on one of the station's two giant nuclear reactors continued. Outside the station, perched on the California coastline midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco, 30 demonstrators protested against the test.

Tornado takes life in Oklahoma

MANNFORD, Okla. — A tornado ripped through this small lake community Sunday, killing one person, injuring a number of others and damaging three churches and several other buildings, police said. An unidentified man was killed as he waited outside for a ride home after leaving early from services at the First Baptist Church, police said. Other church members huddled in a hallway escaped serious injury.
