

Homecoming officials pick 18 senior royalty finalists

By George Davis
Daily Nebraskan Staff Writer

The UNL Homecoming Committee has announced the selection of 18 finalists for the 1984 Homecoming King and Queen. Homecoming Royalty Chairman Steve Blum said the nine men and nine women candidates were chosen on the basis of service, leadership and scholarship at UNL.

Homecoming

"We had about 75 people apply," Blum said. "We narrowed that number to 30 after reviewing the applications and then asked those final 30 to come in for an interview."

Of the final 30 the committee selected 18 to represent UNL Homecoming royalty. The finalists will participate in Homecoming activities, including an appearance on the Channel 10 / 11 Morning Show, an appearance in the Homecoming parade and participation in the crowning ceremonies at half time during the NU-Oklahoma State football game Oct. 6.

The 1984 Homecoming King and Queen will be selected through an all-university student vote Oct. 3.

Blum said that this year the Homecoming committee changed the eligibility rules to select seniors instead of juniors as they have done in the past.

The 1984 Homecoming finalists include:

Computer seminar to examine technology for automated office

New insight on the office of the future and how it will function will be the topic of a seminar Sept. 25 and 26 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 33rd and Holdrege streets.

The seminar, "Office of the Future — Today" will examine new concepts and technologies crucial to the automated, integrated office.

It will provide practical guidelines for ensuring that office systems reach their fullest, most productive potential. Technical and managerial aspects of the automated office will be featured, along with equipment exhibits and hands-on personal computer workshop sessions.

Topics will include artificial intelligences, changing roles of personal computers and work stations, record management and office automation, decision support systems and how they relate to office automation, electronic mail and local area networks.

Participating organizations include the Data Processing Management Association, Association of Information Systems Professionals, Association of Information and Image Management, Association for Systems Management, Administrative Management Society, Southeast Community College and UNL.
