

Festival offers diverse activity

The fourth annual Campus Recreation Sports Festival starts today at 3 p.m. It runs through Sunday afternoon.

Office of Campus Recreation Director Stan Campbell said the purpose of the games is to promote not only athletic competition but also outdoor recreation that supports a healthy lifestyle.

The festival originally was sponsored by Coors. When they dropped the program, the campus recreation office decided to keep it going.

"It is basically a way to get our name around to publicize the things we do," Campbell said. "It also gives students a chance to get outside and enjoy the activities."

The activities start today with picnic games such as one-legged sack races at 3 p.m. The 14-inch co-rec softball tournament starts at 4 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m. the campus recreation office will have an outdoor program orientation to inform students about the many UNL outdoor activities.

Friday finishes with a "fun run" at 8 p.m. and an outdoor showing of "An Officer and a Gentleman" and "Heaven Can Wait" at 9 p.m. at Cather-Pound Residence Halls.

The co-rec softball tournament continues Saturday along with the start of the mud volleyball tournament at 19th and Vine streets. The volleyball tournament is scheduled to start at 9 a.m.

The schedule Saturday also includes a handball singles tournament at noon and a climbing skills demonstration at 2 p.m. at the Cather-Pound fields.

The sports festival concludes Sunday with hacky sack and Frisbee skills competitions which are co-sponsored by the Nebraska Union RecRoom.

Advance entry fees were needed for the mud volleyball and the softball tournaments with the fees refunded if the teams do not forfeit. All other activities are free to UNL students and faculty.

The College Football Bible

By Chuck Bauer

Nebraska (-8 1/2) at UCLA: History says bet UCLA. The Bruins are 5-0 as a home dog as well as being 7-0 vs. running teams. Bet the Bruins to get even.

Iowa at Ohio State (-3): Bet Iowa as the underdog. Iowa may have a hangover after its loss to Penn State, but Iowa is always a solid bet as the dog.

Florida State at Miami (-2 1/2): Bet the North (Florida State) over the South (Miami) in this civil war. Florida State loves to play on the grass on the road.

Baylor at Oklahoma (-18): Bet Baylor since it is a large underdog. Oklahoma is 2-5 against the spread at home after a big game and Baylor does well as a dog after a week off.

Last week, Bauer was 6-0, a 1,000 percentage.

Bauer is the author of The College Football Bible.
