Experienced baseball team 'has what it takes' to win title

By George Davis
 Daily Nebraskan Staff Writer

The Cubs, Padres and Tigers have clinched divisional championships and are looking forward to league playoffs and the World Series. Another team that will look to a World Series to end its fall season is the Nebraska baseball team.

The Huskers traditionally play a seven game intra-squad World Series to close out their fall season. The team also has games against junior colleges.

Coach John Sanders is optimistic about this year's team. It has seven players returning who have starting experience in the infield and outfield. Sanders also said he hopes to have better depth because he had a good recruiting year.

The Huskers lost nine players to graduation and the major league draft in 1983. Consequently, depth was a problem. This year, however, Sanders is looking forward to being a contender for the Big Eight championship.

"People didn't think we would be quite as good as we've been," Sanders said. "We had our chance to surprise people and fell apart at the end of the season. This year I think we have got what it takes to again challenge for the championship."

Sanders said the key areas he has seen improvement from last year are improved team speed, better depth and a more experienced pitching staff. Sanders also said fifth-year senior Kurt Eubanks, who was one of last year's tri-captains, will be granted another year of eligibility because of a change in the eligibility rules for baseball.

Also returning for the Husker baseball team are catcher Bill McGuire, first baseman Mike Duncan and outfielders Paul Meyers, Rich King and Mark Davis. Sanders also said that last year's starting shortstop Jeff Carter will be moved to the outfield, and transfer Larry Mimbs will move to shortstop.

The fall schedule ends Oct. 31 with the seventh game of the Intra-Squad World Series. The Huskers then will move inside and start concentrating on a strength and conditioning program.

Strength coach Dave Ellis is in charge of the baseball team's conditioning program. Sanders said that when the team moves inside for the winter, they will continue to concentrate on fundamental instruction and evaluation.

"We can continue to do everything inside that we can outside only on a scaled-down basis," Sanders said. "From a player's standpoint, the facilities are fantastic for practice through the winter."

Though the winter may seem long and cold, the team will think of another chance at winning the Big Eight title. Also on its mind will be spring trips to Arizona, California and Nevada.

"A lot of the players are excited but the trip to the West Coast," Sanders said. "They are also excited about winning the Big Eight championship. I just hope everything falls in place."
