

Union Board studies bookstore relocation

By Suzanne Teten

Daily Nebraskan Staff Reporter

The Nebraska Union Board discussed placement of a new University Bookstore Thursday night.

Board president Mary Marcy outlined the proposed locations for the bookstore:

- An addition to the Nebraska Union on the east side of the building connecting to the Harvest Room and the bowling alley in the basement.

- A store built underneath Broyhill Fountain and connected to the union.

- A free-standing store built across the mall from the union.

- A store under the mound east of Love North Library connected by tunnel to the library.

- A three-story building connecting the union and the Administration Building.

Nebraska Union Director Daryl Swanson said he strongly objects to a bookstore separate from the union. If vending machines, chairs or pay telephones were installed in a separate bookstore, he said, the bookstore would be in direct competition with the union.

Several board members agreed with this reasoning.

"It seems questionable to offer duplication of services within the same university system," Marcy said.

"Competition is fine," she said, "but competition within your own community may be a hindrance to the union in the services it provides."

The union is "run by student fees and our purpose is to provide services," she said.

In other business, Daryl Swanson told board members that when the football game kick-off time changes, union food services' income suffers.

Swanson said union food services take in about $6,500 during an average football Saturday. Last Saturday's income decreased to about $4,500 because the kick-off was delayed.

If you hear someone in your house, move to a room where you can lock yourself in — a bedroom or bathroom, Rine said. Bring a phone if you can. If not, open a window and start screaming, she said.

Finally, however, you may not be able to prevent an assault. "When there's a weapon, I would not personally recommend physical resistance," Rine said.

In that case, make your primary objective to stay alive with as little harm as possible, and try to remember any identifying characteristics you can — clothing, smells, facial features, speech patterns, Rine said.

If you have any information regarding this crime, call Crime Stoppers at 475-3600. You can remain anonymous.

Various parking lots, designated to provide parking for those attending the NU-Missouri football game Saturday, will need to be cleared by 10 p.m. Friday, according to UNL Police Parking Administrator John Burke.

According to Burke, those lots which are designated for football parking will have signs posted or be chained off. Cars remaining in the lots will be towed, Burke said.

The 10 p.m. deadline is a result of the early kickoff time.

Four Nebraska Congressional candidates will appear in open forums in the Nebraska Union during the next three weeks. The forums are sponsored by the UNL Government Liaison Committee and UPC's Talks and Topics committee.

U.S. Sen. J. James Exon will speak Monday at 2:30 p.m.; Monica Bauer will speak Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.; State Sen. Tom Vickers will speak Oct. 30 at 2:30 p.m. and Rep. Doug Bereuter will speak Nov. 1 at 1:30 p.m.

A debate between the leaders of UNL's College Republicans and Young Democrats will be Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Harper-Schramm-Smith food service study room.
