

Renovations forge ahead

Union Board president Mary Marcy presented a timeline outlining the renovation and planning of the Commonplace Building at a Union Board meeting Tuesday night.

The NU Board of Regents approved the purchase of the Commonplace Building, 333 N. 14th St., for the Nebraska Union's use Friday.

Marcy said that the Commonplace Building may be used by groups other than those now using the Nebraska Union.

"We need to decide what kind of constituency we are going to service in the renovations," Marcy said.

Nebraska Union Director Daryl Swanson said renovations will include an entrance for the handicapped and fire escapes from the second and third floors.

In other business, a motion failed which would have allowed the University Health Center and Pearle Vision Center to test for glaucoma in the main lounge. Some Board members said this is not the lounge's purpose.

When the south crib is renovated, it may be used for activities currently not allowed in the main lounge, Swanson said. Renovation progress is "good," he said.

The Board discussed a proposed visitor's center which may be built between the Nebraska Union and the administration building.

Frank Kuhn, assistant director of the Nebraska Union, said a large screen television may be bought to replace the one in the north lounge. It may show the Video Network programming contracted by the University Program Council, he said.

The Board also discussed the possible need for better lighting near the Nebraska Union's southwest wheelchair ramp. The ramp entrance may be open 24 hours when computers are installed in Nebraska Union.

Free career workshops for Arts and Sciences students on resume writing, interview techniques and job search skills will be given today and Oct. 31 in Andrews Hall 146 at 3:30 p.m. For more information call Anne Kopera at 472-2891.

Two open forums, featuring NU Board of Regent candidates Edward Schwartzkopf and Donald Fricke, will be today and Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Main Lounge. Schwartzkopf will speak Wednesday; Fricke will speak Thursday. Five distinguished alumni will return to UNL for the annual Masters Week Program today through Saturday.

Broadcaster Eric Brown, tax specialist John Connor, executive Richard Coyne, fashion designer Marv Graff and corporate sales director Bill Stowell will visit classrooms and join in seminars with faculty and students.

The events begin today with a Chancellor's Dinner and end Saturday with the NU-Kansas State football game.

A highlight of Master's Week will be a fashion show featuring works by Graff, who is associated with various Seventh Avenue designers. This fall, he will launch his own design company, Marv Graff, LTD.

The fashion show will be staged in conjunction with the annual Ellen H. Richards Dessert at 7 p.m. in the East Union. For more information about the fashion show and dessert, call 472-2913.
