

Sports

Fans follow Huskers to Jayhawk territory

Last chance for fun-loving football fans

By Donna Sisson
Daily Nebraskan Staff Reporter

This is your last chance Husker fans. This weekend is your last chance to see the Huskers play away from home.

Just a short four-hour drive will take you where the action is: Lawrence, Kan., where the Huskers take on the Kansas Jayhawks.

For those who aren't content watching the Huskers on television but don't want to spend a lifeless night in a strange town, this guide to fun was given by Susan Wortman of the Daily Kansan:

There are some basic directional keys for getting around in Lawrence, Massachusetts Street, which runs north and south, is the main street. Massachusetts Street is several blocks east of the stadium; therefore, any address that uses west would be on the stadium side of Massachusetts Street. An address using east would be on the other side of Massachusetts.

Like Massachusetts, all streets named after states run north and south. All numbered streets run east and west. The stadium is near 10th and 11th streets. Any numbered streets greater than 11 would be south of the stadium and those less than 10 are north of the stadium.

Twenty-third street is the fast food heaven of Lawrence. All the well-known, franchised foods can be found here. Those who crave a more diverse fare should try a drive down Massachusetts Street, where the restaurants are more specialized.

The drinking age in Lawrence is 18 for 3.2 beer and 21 for other types of alcohol. Hard liquor is only sold at clubs and to get into these clubs, one must not only be 21, but must also be a member. However, there is no need to lose hope because many clubs either accept other types of membership cards or don't enforce the rules for people from out of town.

The following establishments

Joel Sartore/Daily Nebraskan

Nebraska linebacker Mark Daum hovers above Missouri fullback Eric Drain in the Huskers' 33-23 win earlier this season. Saturday, Nebraska's top-ranked defense will try to intimidate Kansas' Jayhawks in Lawrence.

only serve 3.2 beer and are open to anyone 18 or older:

Cogburns, 737 New Hampshire St., is east of the stadium. It has a dance area and either live music or a deejay.

Bull Winkles, 1344 Tennessee. A small cozy bar with pretzels and beer. It is also east of the stadium.

Wagon Wheel Cafe, 507 W. 14th St. This is an old bar that was once a bookstore. It is noted for the golden oldies on its juke box. They have a beer garden and serve food. "The Wheel" is a few blocks south and then east of the stadium.

The following clubs serve all types of alcohol, but you must be 21 or older to get in:

Gammon's, 1601 W. 23rd St., has a large dance floor, serves food and has backgammon games. Gammon's is popular with the fraternities and sororities in Lawrence. It is about one mile south of the stadium.

The Mad Hatter, 700 New Hampshire. Another place that is popular with fraternities and sororities. It has a deejay, dance floor and is east of the stadium, past Massachusetts Street.

The Sanctuary, 1401 W. 7th St. A big bar with two levels and a beer garden. There are pool tables, video games and a dance floor with a deejay. The Sanctuary also serves food and has good barbecue sandwiches. It is a few blocks north and about 1 1/2 miles west of the stadium.

The following are some reliable restaurants in Lawrence:

Becerras Mexican Restaurant, 2515 W. 6th St. Serves Mexican food and has a 21 club inside that serves pitchers of margaritas. It is north and west of the stadium.

The Smoke House, 719 Massachusetts, is well known for its barbecued meats. It is relatively inexpensive. The restaurant is two or three blocks north and then east of the stadium.

The Eldridge House, at Seventh and Massachusetts streets, is a restaurant with both public and private dining rooms.

Nabil's, Ninth and Iowa streets. A nice dress-up restaurant with a private club inside it.

Kansas tough but no contest for Huskers

By Jim Rasmussen
Daily Nebraskan Senior Reporter

The Kansas Jayhawks have built some momentum the past two weeks, but KU Coach Mike Gottfried said that won't be enough to power his team to an upset against Nebraska Saturday.

"We'd have to play way above our heads and they'd have to make a lot of mistakes for us to win," Gottfried said. "I think we'll be playing the best team in the country."

The Jayhawks cracked the Big Eight's first division with wins over Oklahoma and Colorado. Kansas holds fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 mark. The Jayhawks are 4-5 overall.

Gottfried said he's been happy with his team's last two games, but he isn't exactly heaping praise on his team.

"We've been playing OK, but we can play better," he said. "We gave up a lot of yards against Colorado."

The Buffs gained 424 total yards passed for 349, but couldn't offset KU's balanced attack. Kansas rushed for 202 yards and passed for 205. The Jayhawks escaped with a 28-27 win after Colorado missed two field goals in the final seven minutes.

Gottfried, 39, said he is pleased with the progress Kansas has made since he took over the coaching duties before the 1983 season. Gottfried's first KU team went 4-6-1, but scored big wins over Southern California and Missouri. This season's 28-11 triumph against Oklahoma ranks as one of the year's biggest upsets.

"We're progressing, but I'd like to progress faster," Gottfried said. "We're pleased, but we know we've got a long way to go."

Gottfried said he thinks he can build a top program at Kansas, given time to recruit better players. He said he doesn't have a specific time table.

"You can't hang your hat on specific years," he said. "It used to be you could do it in four years," but with the strength of programs today, the way teams go up or down, you're looking at a seven-year proposition."

Gottfried does have some talent to work with this year. On offense, KU leaders include quarterback Mike Norseth and running backs Lynn Williams and Robert Mimbs.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said Mimbs and Williams are "as good as any running backs we've faced."

He also praised Norseth. "He's throwing well, and he's hard to sack, hard to get to," Osborne said.

On defense, linebacker Willie Pless leads the Hawks. Pless won All-Big Eight recognition from UPI last season, and is considered a strong candidate for conference honors again this year. He leads a defense which denied Oklahoma a touchdown until the game's final play.

Osborne said Nebraska fans shouldn't be fooled by Kansas' 4-5 record.

"This is another game where I'm concerned, and probably nobody else is," he said. "The thing I'm concerned about is they're 2-0 the past two weeks."

'Losiers' hold lead; pro mark threatened

THE COLLEGES

Indiana (0-9) held onto the top position in the Bottom Ten despite bitter charges that the Hoosiers had poured it on themselves during a 7-50 lashing by Ohio State in order to widen their lead.

The Hosiers — also known as the Losiers these days — are feeling the cold generated by No. 2 Columbia (0-7), which set an NCAA record for largest loss to an 0-6 team (Dartmouth), with a 9-41 passing.

Bottom Ten

The Columbia-Dartmouth game was witnessed by scouts from the Garden State Bowl, the Gotham Bowl and the Pineapple Bowl, all of which are extinct.

Another threat to Indiana is the No. 3 University of Texas at El Deflected Paso (1-7), whose lone victory came in its second game and thus won't hurt it in the rankings as much as a late-season win would.

THE RANKINGS

SCHOOL	LAST LOSS	NEXT LOSS
1) Indiana (0-9)	7-50 Ohio St.	Illinois
2) Columbia (0-7)	9-41 Dartmth.	Cornell
3) UTEP (1-7)	9-42 BYU	Colorado St.
4) Pitt (1-7-1)	7-13 Syracuse	Tulane
5) Duke (1-7)	3-31, Ga. Tech	Wake Forest
6) Kansas St. (2-7)	6-34 Okla. St.	Iowa State
7) Rice (1-7)	6-28 Arkansas	SMU
8) Minnehaha (3-6)	3-48 Illinois	Michigan
9) Northwstrn. (2-8)	10-27 Mich. St.	Ohio State
10) Alabumble (3-5)	def. Miss. St.	LSU
11) Utah State (1-7); 12) Dartmouth (1-6); 13) Colorado (1-8); 14) Colorado State (2-7); 15) California (2-7); 16) Oregon State (2-7); 17) tie among the three Mississippi — Ole (3-5-1), State (3-6), Southern (2-7); 20) UCLA (6-3, but outscored overall 181-184.)

CRUMMY GAME OF THE WEEK: Texas at El Deflected Paso (1-7) at Colorado State (2-7).

ROUT OF THE WEEK: Minnehaha (3-6) at Michigan (5-4).

IDLE: Electoral College.

TIME TO START OVER: Marietta (Ohio) College ended a 41-game winless streak by edging Wooster College (not the sauce) 15-12.

CONSOLATION FOR UCLA AND OTHER TROJAN HATERS: Bozo the Clown, who campaigned as a candidate for president this year, is actually Larry Harmon — a USC graduate.

TRANSLATION, PLEASE: Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain, after a 10-10 tie with Iowa: "Nobody's happy with a tie. I don't have a sister, but it's not like kissing my wife."

THE PROS

The dramatic quest of Houston (0-10) and Buffalo (0-10) for the NFL record for most drubbings in a season has raised one of the biggest controversies in sports since Roger Maris' 61-home-run year.

The problem is, the Oilers' and Bills' 16-game seasons are two whompings longer than Tampa Bay's season when the Bucs went 0-14 in 1976.

Will the NFL have to borrow one of Cooper-town's asterisks? Or will the league grant the request of the 1976 Tampa Bay team, led by quarterbacks Steve Spurrier and Terry Hanratty, to come out of retirement and absorb two more beatings?

Continued on Page 11