Student commends veteran's sincerity

I am writing in regard to the Nov. 12 story, "Lincoln Remembers War Dead on Veteran's Day." I thought Kevin Warneke did a good job reporting. However, I only wish he and all others knew what a great man he was interviewing.

Lt. Col Robert Robeson is the greatest vet that I know. First, I'd like to apologize for not being able to attend the program Sunday. Secondly, I'd like to share some of the great qualities Robeson has shared with me.

He is the most courageous and intelligent person I know. I have never come in contact with someone who is so sincere in all that he says and does.

One of the best examples was a talk I had with him shortly after my mother's death. I walked in his office ready to give up on everything. He shared some personal things with me and told of his feelings about my mother, whom he also knew. I walked out of his office with a whole new outlook on life. He made me look at my own life in ways I never had before.

If we were ever to go to war again, and I had my choice of a commander, it would be none other than Robeson.

Letter Policy

The Daily Nebraskan welcomes brief letters to the editor from all readers and interested others.

Letters will be selected for publication on the basis of clarity, originality, timeliness and space available. The Daily Nebraskan retains the right to edit all material submitted.

Readers also are welcome to submit material as guest opinions. Whether material should run as a letter or guest opinion, or not run, is left to the editor's discretion.

Letters and guest opinions sent to the newspaper become property of the Daily Nebraskan and cannot be returned.

Anonymous submissions will not be considered for publication. Letters should include the author's name, year in school, major and group affiliation, if any. Re-

When something goes wrong with my home computer, I call a colleague. I always know where he'll be — at his computer. Then the two of us work out the problem together while our wives sleep. This is "bowling for Yuppies."

Now I know how wrong I was. The computer has not liberated me from my office. It has tethered me to it. I'm a worker-drone, a bee in the honeycomb of my career. I'm "liberated" now to work around the clock and as in "Macbeth," the computer has vanquished sleep. I could be working. I could always be working.

So, beware the home computer. Neither buy nor rent one. Enjoy your leisure time, but understand that while you're goofing off people like me are at our terminals getting ahead. The future is ours. The present just happens to be murder.
