Ortega says Nicaraguans prepare for U.S. invasion

MANAGUA — Thousands of young Nicaraguans reported Tuesday for orders and training in preparation for what the country's left-wing Sandinista leaders fear will be a U.S. invasion.

Nicaraguan armed forces remained on maximum alert and Defense Minister Humberto Ortega said in a news conference Tuesday that his government would step up military preparations within 15 days for an invasion by U.S. troops.

Part of the preparation includes a new shipment of helicopters from the Soviet Union, Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto said in a television interview Tuesday. He dismissed speculation that a Soviet ship that arrived last week in the Nicaraguan port of Corinto was carrying Soviet MiG-21 jet fighters.

Soviet-made tanks and anti-aircraft guns have been deployed on the main roads of the capital since early Monday in what diplomats here said was intended as a show of force to the United States.

The deployment coincided with the opening in Brasilia of a meeting of the Organization of American States, where both the United States and Nicaragua hoped to rally support for their ideologically opposed policies on Central America.

Secretary of State George Shultz said at the opening of the DAS meeting Monday: "The fear of invasion seems to be self-induced on the part of Nicaragua."

But Nicaragua's leaders have said they had reason to fear an invasion because of the extensive network of military bases the United States has built in neighboring Honduras. They also cited frequent U.S.-Honduran exercises and the presence of U.S. warships off Central America.

The Pentagon has said naval exercises now being staged in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans were not in preparation for an invasion.

Aides admit deficit may increase

WASHINGTON — Reagan Administration aides conceded Tuesday the U.S. budget outlook has deteriorated and the deficit may exceed $190 billion in the current fiscal year in the absence of new policy initiatives.

In August, the White House said the deficit would fall slightly to $172.4 billion in the 1985 fiscal year if current policies were continued.

President Reagan said during his re-election campaign that the economic expansion was trimming government red ink. But slower-than-expected economic growth has reduced government revenues and pushed the deficit estimate up by more than $20 billion, one official said. The new estimate has added urgency to the administration's search for possible cuts in domestic spending.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes reaffirmed Reagan's re-election campaign anti-tax stance and said Reagan told a cabinet meeting Tuesday that "our main purpose is to decrease the rate of growth in government." But his spending blueprint, to be presented to Congress early next year, will face opposition on Capitol Hill, especially in the Democrat-controlled House.

'Baby Fae' continues rejection fight

LOMA LINDA, Calif. — Doctors striving to prevent four-week-old "Baby Fae" from rejecting her baboon heart have placed her back on a respirator and are trying a new anti-rejection drug, a medical bulletin said Tuesday. "Baby Fae" continued to fight the initial graft rejection episode that began last week and has diminished the heart function, the bulletin said.

Doctors have placed an order for a human heart for "Baby Fae" in case the baboon transplant fails. They have also said they would consider another baboon transplant for her if a human heart could not be obtained.

U.S. test ASAT infra-red system

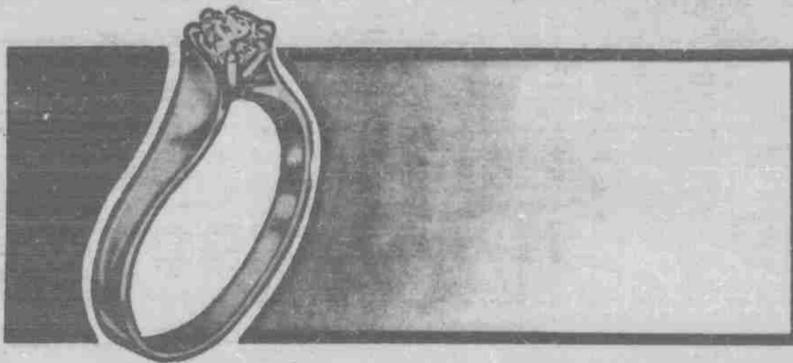

WASHINGTON — The United States Tuesday tested the guidance and target homing systems of an anti-satellite weapon which was fired into space towards a star from an F-15 jet fighter over California, the Air Force announced. It was the first test to check the rocket's infra-red seeking guidance system. The weapon was not fired at a satellite or other target, but was instead blasted into space toward a bright star, the Air Force said. Stars give off infra-red light rays just as satellites do.

Rajiv Gandhi announces elections

NEW DELHI — Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, riding a wave of sympathy over his mother's recent assassination and buoyed by improvements in the economy, Tuesday called national parliamentary elections for Dec. 24, two weeks earlier than forecast by most political analysts.

However, in the Sikh-majority Punjab state, where Sikh extremists have been fighting for autonomy, or in Assam the site of sectarian strife.

Gandhi called the elections 13 days after his mother, Indira Gandhi, was assassinated by two of her Sikh bodyguards. Opinion polls published since then have shown that the ruling Congress (I) party was likely to score an overwhelming victory in the election to select a government to rule the country until January 1990.
