CIA admits its negligence in publishing rebel manual

WASHINGTON — CIA Director William Casey has admitted negligence in his agency's publication of a manual for Nicaraguan rebels that advocated assassination and kidnapping, Rep. Wyche Fowler (D-Ga.), said Wednesday. Fowler also told reporters the House Intelligence Committee thought that by producing the primer, the CIA had violated a law prohibiting "advice or support to those who would seek to overthrow the government of Nicaragua."

But, he said, neither he nor the panel believed the CIA intentionally violated an executive order banning U.S.-sponsored assassinations.

Fowler said that at a meeting with the House committee Wednesday, Casey promised to make specific changes in "the command and control structure of the agency, both in Washington and in the field, to try to prevent anything as embarrassing as this has been to the United States and to the agency from happening."

Fowler said he did not believe Casey should resign. The agency's proper function is collection of intelligence and it should not conduct foreign policy, he said.

Reagan to slow arms spending

WASHINGTON — President Reagan told his cabinet Wednesday that the rate of growth in Pentagon spending will have to be slowed as part of a broad-based effort to reduce massive budget deficits.

Although arms spending will rise from the $266 billion planned for the current 1985 fiscal year, White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters Reagan has decided the rate of increase will be less than previously planned. Reagan is seeking to cut the deficit to about $100 billion by 1988. He told the cabinet the first step will be to hold spending on federal programs in 1986 to the same $830 billion level expected this year. Total spending, including interest payments, will reach about $980 billion in 1986 under Reagan's plan.

Speakes said Social Security benefits would be exempt from the freeze and retired people would receive their normal increases to cover inflation. Reagan Wednesday gave his cabinet a list of $34 billion in domestic spending cuts designed to reduce massive budget deficits, Speakes said.

2,000 reported dead from gas leak

BHOPAL, India — The death toll was reported at 2,000 Wednesday in the poison gas leak from a pesticide factory here, and doctors said thousands more face possible blindness and crippling nerve damage.

United News of India quoted unofficial reports for the death figure and gave no further details. The Press Trust of India put the toll at 1,600 and said there were fears that many of the 50,000 people given medical aid could go blind. The death toll could rise because of serious kidney and liver complications he expected to affect survivors.

Poisonous fumes leaked from a Union Carbide underground storage tank Monday. Officials have begun to assess the possibility of long-term damage to people, livestock and crops from the methyl isocyanate gas.

Madhya Pradesh State Chief Minister Arjun Singh told PTI that hospitals in Bhopal had treated 50,000 of the city's 700,000 inhabitants. India's Petroleum and Chemicals Minister, Vasakt Sathe, said Union Carbide should pay compensation. Union Carbide Chairman Warren Anderson is traveling to India to head an investigation into the cause of the leak.

U.S. probing death of hostage

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration said Wednesday it is trying to determine if the hostage killed by hijackers of a Kuwaiti Airbus Tuesday was an American diplomat. State Department spokesman John Hughes said it was possible the man was one of three officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development on the plane. The hijackers holding the plane on a runway in the Iranian capital of Tehran said they killed an American diplomat, according to the official Iranian news agency IRNA.

Hughes said two American women were among passengers released by the hijackers.

U.S. to send Africans more wheat

WASHINGTON — President Reagan Wednesday approved an additional $125 million worth of emergency food aid for drought-stricken countries in Africa. He signed an order releasing 300,000 metric tons of wheat from government reserves and approving $50 million to buy and transport more grains and other food to Africa.

Peter McPherson, administrator of the Agency for International Development, said Ethiopia is receiving as much food as it can handle so most of the new U.S. food will go to other countries. It should arrive in about two months.
