Habitat in the Centrum, downtown, offers a voluminous selection of Scandinavian cookware, glassware and colorful knickknacks. You can choose from many German and Swedish toys for the epicurean tot and European brand coffee makers for the jaded java addicts in your life. To add some pizzazz to those dull packages, the store sells whimsical stickers in a variety of shapes and sizes.

Hangups at East Park Plaza has the best selection of low-priced art deco posters and portraits in town. Glamour connoisseurs will love the store's glossy reproductions of '30s and '40s theater posters, which feature elegant flappers, Berlinesque nightclubbers and glitzy gadabouts. Also available are experimental photography reproductions with more sexual ambiguities than a Fellini flick. For old movie buffs, the store has an excellent selection of Marilyn Monroe, Cary Grant and Mae West posters as well as vintage film bills.

Once you've bought that unique gift, you'll need a unique card to go along with it. Avant Card at 1340 O St., has a grand collection of strange Christmas cards you'll probably not find at any Hallmark shop. They offer nouveau art cards that sport scantily-clad bodies, iridescent colors and crude sayings as well as cute, clean ones for the prisses on your list. The shop also has a few gifts like hand-painted T-shirts, Chippendale's all-male playing cards and calendars for the single, successful woman and literary calanders that feature writers like Eudora Welty and Tennessee Williams for the well-read English major.

So get out there and start shopping! With a little creativity and determination, you can transcend the tedium of traditional Yule gifts with items from the more eclectic Lincoln stores.
