RHA election...

"We can make suggestions to housing to use the extra money for cable (television) in the halls and for renovations that need to be done," said Castellano, a freshman political science major. "Also, the overhead lights that are being put in the halls may get done more quickly if we have the money."

Each UP member has experience in residence hall government. Danforth has been a UNL delegate to RRA conventions and has served as an executive in hall government.

Castellano is RHA's rate study chairperson and represented RHA at this month's Nebraska State Student Association's State Assembly.

Loberg, a sophomore accounting major, is RHA's press secretary.

Baacke, a junior computer science major, has been an executive in hall government and has worked on several RHA committees.

The elections will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in each City Campus food service and in the East Union. All residence hall students must show their Validine meal card to vote.

Dave Edwards, current RHA president, said that for the first time RHA executives, hall senators and hall officers will be elected at the same time.

Castellano said students should make a conscious effort to vote.

Chew causes cancer, high blood pressure

The Reuter News Report

BOSTON — Smokeless tobacco, which is becoming more popular among young people, causes high blood pressure, according to two Ohio State University researchers in a recent New England Journal of Medicine article.

In a survey of 1,663 volunteers, the 19 young men who used chewing tobacco and snuff had blood pressure readings that were significantly higher than those for both smokers and non-smokers.

Besides being addictive and causing cancer, "smokeless tobacco use appears to be associated with higher blood pressure levels in young adults," concluded K. L. Schroeder and M. S. Chen.
