Sidetrack changes location, local drive-in loses screen

After a long summer of hard work and play, many UNL students return to find some entertainment changes over the summer.

Several restaurants opened this summer. The Pizza Place, which offers delivery, is open at the old Momma Rosa's store, 3239 S. 13th St. Bridges, a restaurant specializing in low calorie meals, opened in the first level of the Gunny's building, 13th and Q streets. Marilyn's Cafe opened at 14th and O streets.

The Rotisserie Restaurant, at 11th and O streets, opened a cafe-bar on its lower level.

The Lincoln Exchange, 132 S. 13th St., closed indefinitely.

TCBY, an acronym for "the country's best yogurt," opened at 14th and P streets this summer. TCBY advertised frozen yogurt sundaes as having "all the pleasure, none of the guilt." Another snack shop, Vic's Corn Popper, opened at 14th and O streets. Vic's offers gourmet and flavored popcorn.

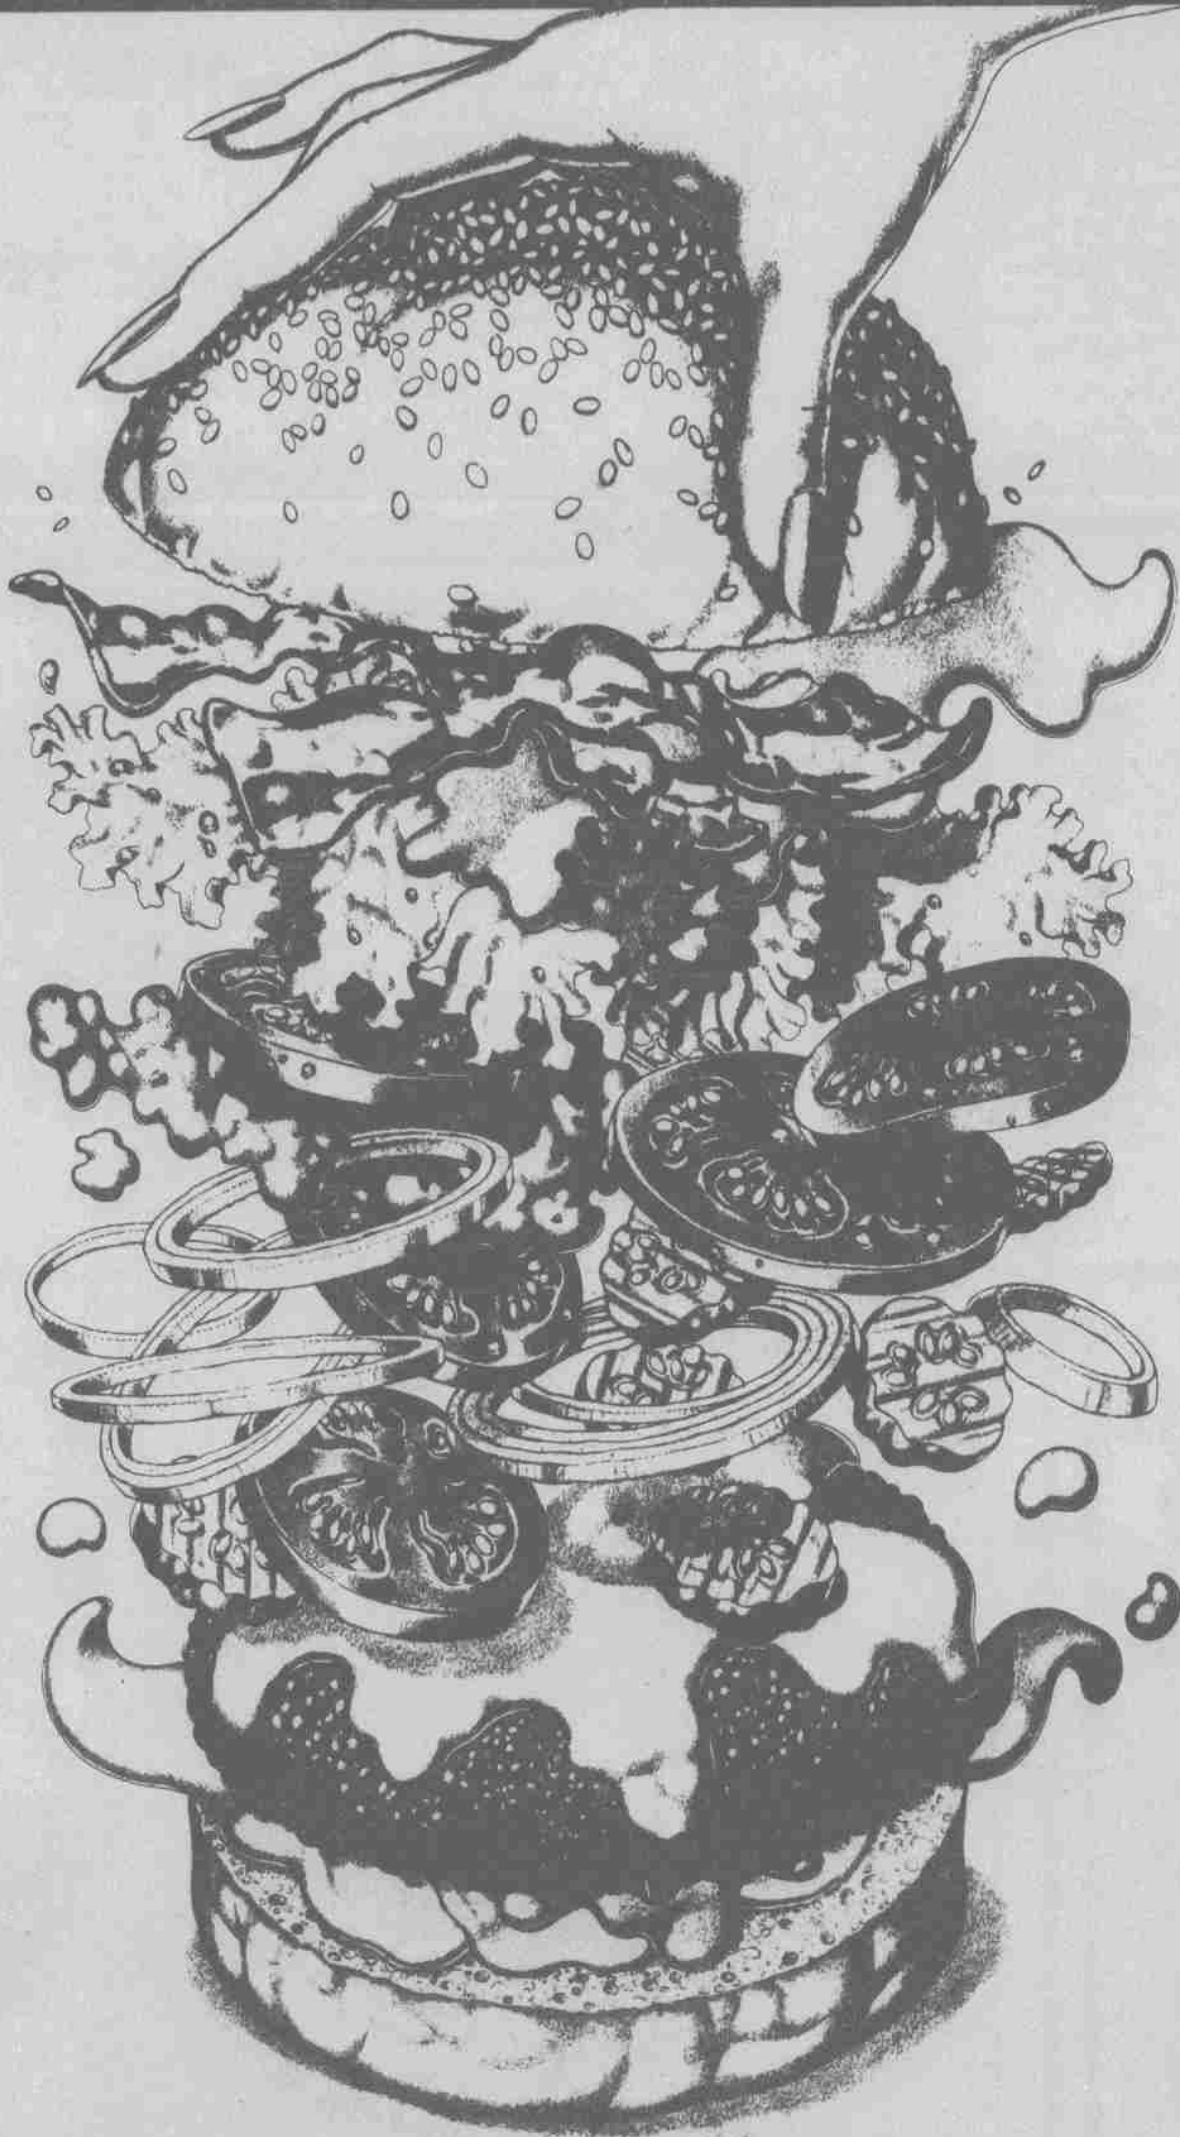

Visitors to Gateway garden mall will discover a food court, similar to the Atrium's "Le Metro."

The Sidetrack, formerly at 7th and P streets, moved to 935 O St., in July. The building is air conditioned and about twice as large as the old, owner Joyce Durand said.

During a fierce wind and rain storm in June, the West O drive-in lost its screen. Dubinsky Bros. Theatres, the company that operated the discount outdoor theater, has no plans to reopen it.

On campus, Sheldon Art Gallery's morning hours were cut because of a budget shortfall. The gallery now is open from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.
