

UNL Homecoming nominees cut from 60 to 18 finalists

Eighteen candidates have been selected as finalists in UNL's 1985 Homecoming Royalty Contest.

Finalists include:
 Tammy Kaup, a senior news-editorial major from Bassett.
 Daniel J. Longacre, a senior computer science and engineering major from Bellevue.
 Milli King, a senior news-editorial and Spanish major from Central City.
 Lisa Edens, a senior speech pathology major from Harrisburg.
 Jay Keasing, a senior chemistry/biology major from Harvard.
 Mary Marcy, a senior speech communication major from Hay Springs.
 Marybeth Prusa, a senior home economics/vocational education major from Howells.

Mark Leeper, a senior political science major from Lincoln.
 Kimberly Frances Wood, a senior physical science major from Lincoln.
 Jan Ward, a senior marketing and marketing education major from North Platte.
 Lynn DiDonato, a senior biology major from Omaha.
 Jeff Hansen, a senior business administration major from Omaha.
 Chris Hunt, a senior life sciences major from Omaha.
 Bobbi Lubberstedt, a senior psychology major from Omaha.
 Dave Smith, a senior finance major from Omaha.

 Roger Doerr, a senior electrical engineering major from Orchard.
 Todd Ibach, a senior ag honors major from Sumner.
 Don Welch, a senior finance major from Wood River.

A special committee of faculty members and students chose the candidates from more than 60 nominees. UNL students will select a man and woman to reign as Homecoming Royalty at an election Oct. 23 on City and East campuses.
 The 1985 Homecoming couple will be announced Oct. 26 during half-time of the Nebraska-University of Colorado football game.

Group discusses 1999 values

From Staff Reports

Some UNL students, faculty and staff members will get to choose one item of greatest value to bring with them to the year 1999 as part of a forum sponsored by the Life Work Inquiry Group on Nov. 14.

People from the UNL community will enter their ideas of what they would bring from their university experience to the year 1999 in the forum, said Dan Wheeler, staff development specialist for the UNL Institute of Agricultural and Natural Resources.

"For example, you could choose a computer because it will be one of the most important things in society in 1999," he said.

Participants will choose a winning entry that "most accurately reflects what they think is going to happen in 1999," Wheeler said.
 All entrants will participate in small groups to discuss entries and their rationale, he said.

"We think there are so many things going on that it's important for people to think of what values are important," now and will be in 1999, Wheeler said.

The Life Work Inquiry Group, made up of faculty and staff members and students, was formed four years ago to look at the quality of life and work issues on campus, he said.

Contact Dan Wheeler at 472-5558 for more information. Entry deadline is Nov. 7.

The Association for Computing Machinery is sponsoring a Plato Users group meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in Ferguson Hall 217. The meeting is open to the public.

Students who received tuition statements that showed a credit balance can pick up refund checks at the Student Accounts window, Administration Building 204, weekdays starting today from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. However, refund checks will not be available until about Nov. 6 for credit balances resulting from late scholarships, grants and awards that were not printed on tuition statements; courses dropped after Sept. 4, but before the end of the refund period, and overpayments. Students must present a valid UNL identification card to pick up refund checks. For more information call 472-2887.
