UN expert to speak on foreign policy

By Milli King
Staff Reporter

A U.N. expert will speak Thursday at UNL as part of United Nations Week to observe the 40th anniversary of the international peace-maker.

U.N. Week began Saturday and will end Friday.

Jack Smith, senior associate director of the Iowa Stanley Foundation, will talk about foreign policy issues and the need to secure world peace by strengthening the United Nations.

Smith will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Nebraska Union.

Tom Hudgens, a vice president of the Campaign for U.N. Reform, spoke Saturday as part of U.N. Week.

"It's a worldwide event," said Albert Schrekinger, a past professor of social work at UNL.

Schrekinger, who helped the Lincoln U.N. Association, described Hudgens as a "global citizen" who wants to strengthen the United Nations.

"He realizes how small the world is — how precious it is," Schrekinger said.

Hudgens is working to reform the United Nations so it can be stronger in securing peace by non-violent means, Schrekinger said.

Hudgens spoke Saturday on "Let's Abolish War," the same title as his recently published book.

United Nations day, which is Thursday, and U.N. Week activities are observed in 50 nations that have U.N. associations, said the Rev. Howard Holverson, Lincoln U.N. Association president. The Lincoln U.N.A. is one of 175 chapters in the United States, he said.

The United Nations was established in 1945.

Reform, speaks to about 150 guests and members of the United Nations Association of the United States of America in the Omaha Room of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 33rd and Holdrege streets, Saturday evening.

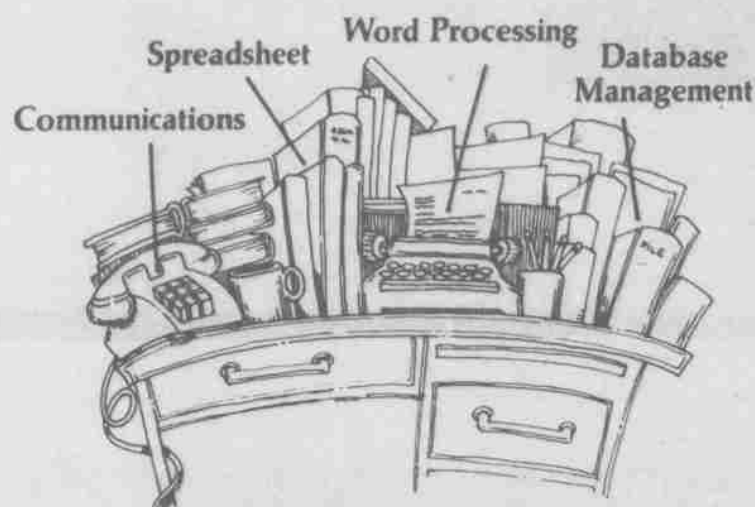

Hudgens related a method by which he thinks the threat of a war between the United States and Soviet Union could be eliminated: "If Russia would send 500,000 of their children to live in America, and we would send 500,000 of our children to live in Russia, which of the two super powers would dare bomb their own children?"

NOTICE!!!

DON'T LET THE UNIVERSITY PRESSURE YOU IN TO PURCHASING AN IBM PORTABLE... IT'S INFERIOR!

FINALLY, A PORTABLE OFFICE

Are you trying to get your personal and business affairs in order when your desk is out of order? Are you attempting to operate swiftly, efficiently and effectively when your reports, records and data are buried under a Matterhorn of clutter?

Now, you can clean up your act, by cleaning up your desk—because we've put together a Corona Portable Computer with Alpha Software's "Electric Desk". It's Corona's comprehensive, yet simple to use, Portable Office Package that allows you to concentrate on your work, instead of concentrating on trying to find your work.

You get the Corona PPC-400, the most advanced portable computer that's IBM PC compatible. It features a high resolution screen (twice the resolution of the IBM-PC), 2.360K floppy disk drive and 256K RAM (with room for more drives and RAM). And, as you grow, the Corona PPC-400 will grow with you. It has expansion slots for additional PC boards, and built-in serial and parallel ports so you can add other peripherals.

What's more, the system comes complete with "Electric Desk"... a powerful, easy-to-learn and use package that includes word processing, spreadsheets, database management and communications (suggested retail value is $345).

With a Corona Portable Office your personal and business affairs are now manageable.
